Freedom to fulfill our

Freedom is not the right to do as we wish, as many believe, but rather it is the right to learn what we should do in order to fulfill our potentialities.

Throughout our lives, we are challenged to discover our potentialities. Our parents, our teachers, our friends all influence what we are to become.

Each day we are learning through our opportunities in academics and outside activities what we want to be. We exercise our freedom each time we take one step into the future.

Our country, the United States, is the only nation in the world which allows us, its citizens, to make our own decisions without direction from the government. Only in the United States are we able to learn as much as we are capable and attaining any goals we set.

Our Declaration of Independence assures each of us the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Our goals should be to fulfill our total potentialities, otherwise we deprive ourselves our right to happiness.

'Quakers Shake'

The 1975 football homecoming proved victorious, as the Woodmen defeated the Plainfield Quakers 20-14.

Homecoming activities included week long class competitions and the annual homecoming parade. The festivities came to an exciting climax at halftime when the Junior float was awarded first place and finally, the crowning of Maizie Smart as the queen.

This year the second annual basketball homecoming was held. Although the Woodmen were defeated by the Perry Meridian Falcons, the festivities were exciting.

Homecoming week was set into motion with a week of unusual and spirit building class competitions.

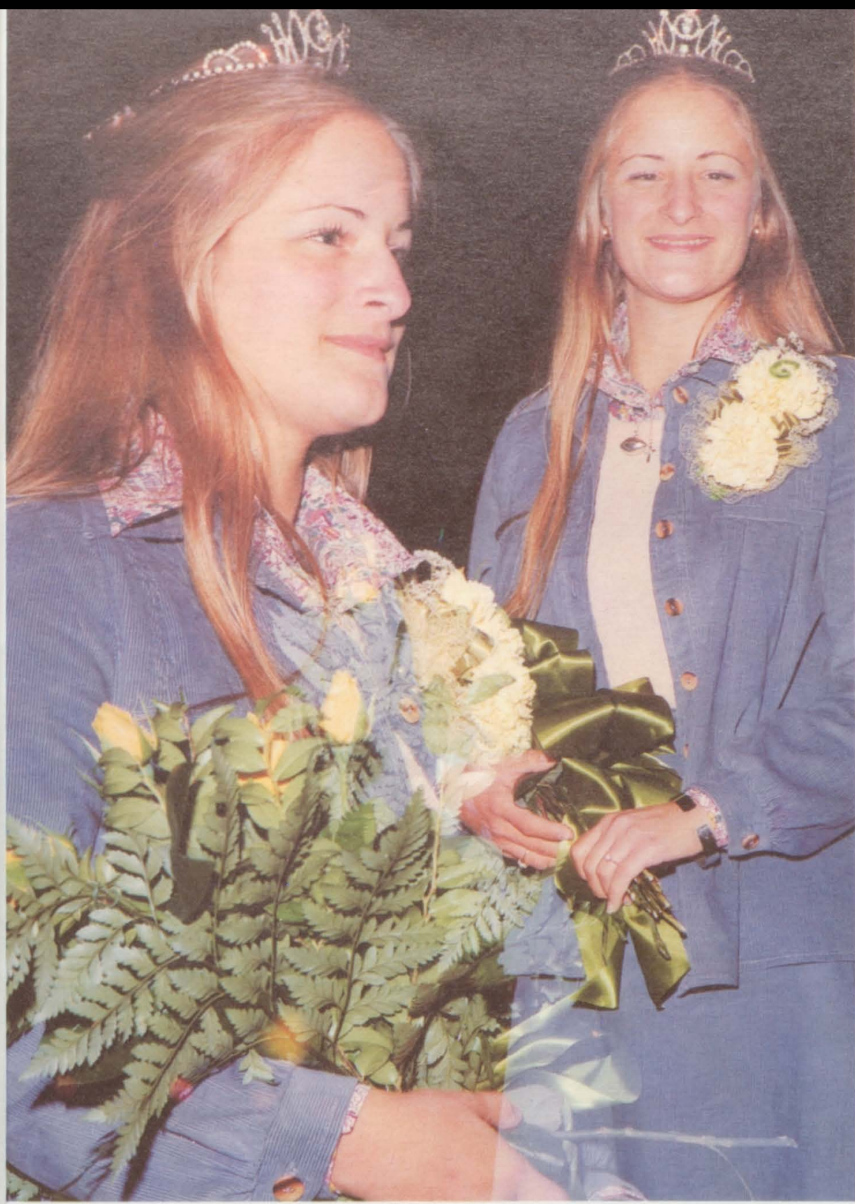

During halftime ceremonies, Gary Ferguson was crowned king and Brenda Terhune was crowned queen and class competition results were announced. After the game a skating party was held.

Treasured Memories

Throughout our years at GCHS we partake in many interesting and often unusual activities. Most of these activities are related to athletic events, but a few of these activities are academic related.

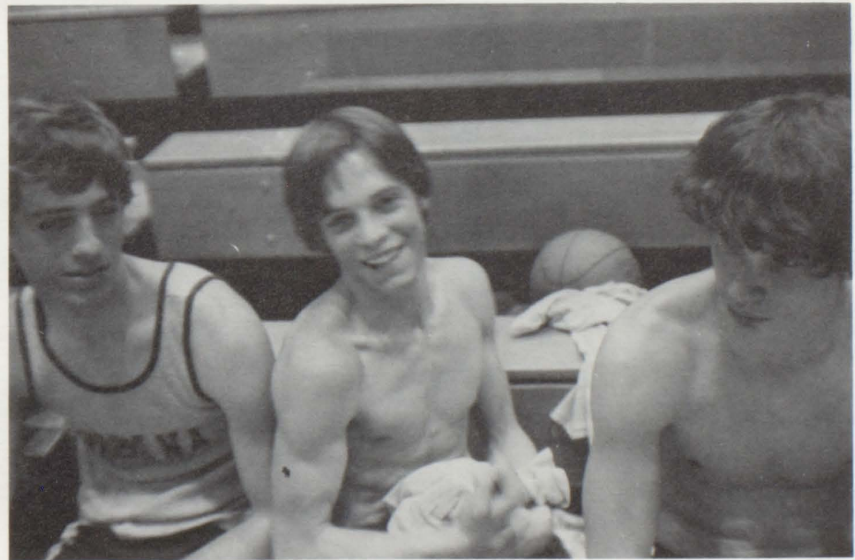

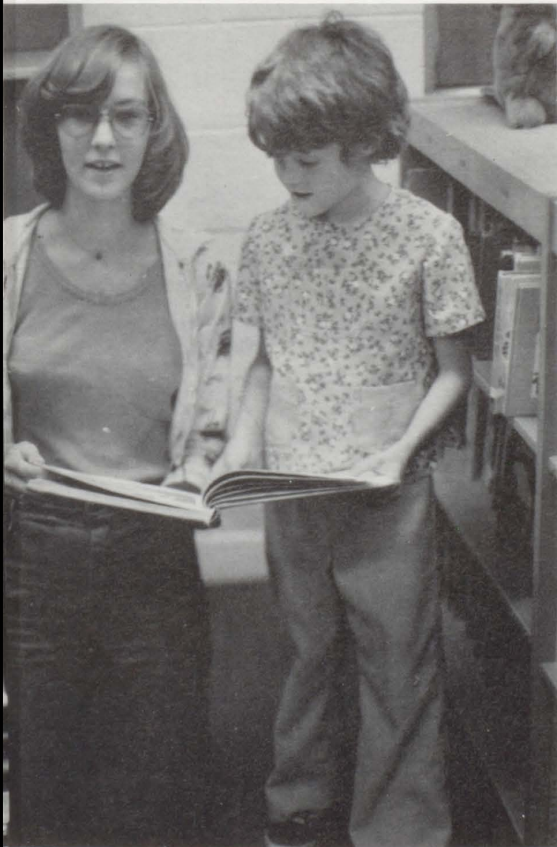

Nearly all of the athletic activities have been aimed at boosting spirit. Pep sessions seemed to be the most popular site for these activities. Among the activities included at the 1975-76 pep sessions were a bubble blowing contest and a basket or hoop shooting contest. These contests were to help the individual classes gain points in the race to win the spirit trophy. Other activities that revolved around sports but were not included in pep sessions were locker decorations done by the various athletic team's pixies, the constant "goofing off" by the intramural basketball teams, and the most noticeable—Varsity and reserve basketball team's haircuts.

Some of the many academic related activities included things such as the Cadet Teaching classes in which Seniors gain teaching experience by helping at Southwest. The Spanish class displayed their talents by putting on a play.

Ambitious Rivalry

Through competition we strive to fulfill our potentialities. Some of the most thrilling and rewarding contests take place at the Indiana State Fair. As in past years our Varsity Cheerleaders, Reserve Cheerleaders, and Marching Band all participated in the 1975 State Fair competitions, but this year was the most successful yet.

After many hours of very hard work both the Varsity and Reserve Cheerleaders took first place honors at the Johnson County Fair. Later in August they competed at State Fair. At state the final standings showed the Varsity tied for fifteenth and the Reserve taking second.

The Marching Woodmen began their most successful marching season yet by capturing fifth place at the State Fair Marching Band Contest on August 21, 1975. The band also received Sweepstakes at Marshall and first place at Morehead.

One Act Plays

"Childhood" and "The Golden Ax" were one-act plays presented by the Theater Department early in the year. Both required small sets with a minimum of props and were performed in the round. It was a new experience for some Greenwood theatergoers as they sat on the stage with the actors for the show. It also provided some unique experiences for the actors as they involved their audience more in the acting.

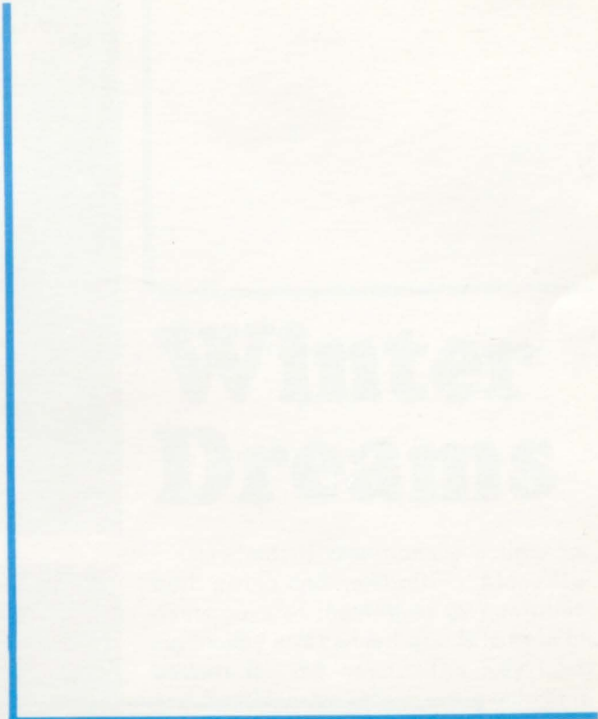

A second evening of plays was a children's play written by Mr. David McFadzean, theater director. "Penelope and the Contest for the Kingdom" centered on the conflict between two rival queens and their sons. Each year they had a contest for power with Bert and Gus trying to outdo each other. Children, young and old, were delighted by Penelope who saved the day for both. The mud-pie contest, although messy, brought a happy conclusion to the play. This play was also done in the round to involve the audience in the full action of the play. This is the second of McFadzean's plays to be presented.

Winter Dreams

Christmas is traditionally a time for both giving and celebrating. Many students gave of themselves by contributing money and canned goods to help fill baskets for the needy. The Key Club and Sunshine Society gave much time and effort to help sort and distribute the baskets.

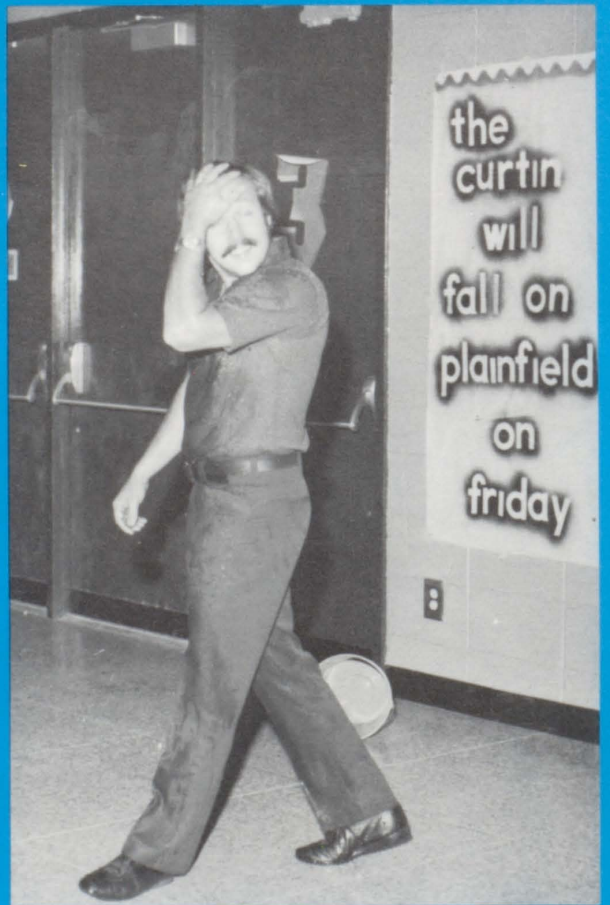

We celebrated the Christmas of 1975 at the annual turnabout Christmas dance, sponsored by the Sunshine Society. At this year's dance Pete Wittig was named Mr. Claus and Maizie Smart was named Mrs. Claus. The theme of this year's dance was Dream Land.

We further celebrated the Christmas season with a relatively new event, the second annual Madrigal Dinner. At the dinner, the Madrigal Singers sang many traditional songs, such as "Oh, Come All Ye Faithfull" and "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow".

Key Club

The Key Club, a high school community service organization, was engaged in a number of activities throughout the year.

Commandeered by Don Powell, serving as President, and supported by Randy Walker, Vice President, the Key Club and its parent organization, Kiwanis, sponsored, sold tickets, sold refreshments, and ushered at the Travel and Adventure series.

They participated in the Diabetes Bike-A-Thon in which they raised $150 for the Diabetes Research Association.

Attempting to demonstrate their athletic prowess, they challenged the Center Grove Key Club to a dual on the hardwood in which they were surprisingly caught unaware by a 30 man squad to our 7. They fell to defeat.

The Key Club along with the Booster Club sponsored a skating party at the Big Red Barn for Basketball Homecoming. Combining efforts with the Sunshine Society, they prepared 13 food baskets for needy families in the area at Christmas.

Sponsors for this spirited group of young men are Mr. Keith Conrow and Mr. Art Beecher. They make sure the Key Clubbers get the job done.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll is an international Honorary for high school journalists. Each year students who have a 90% academic average and have done outstanding work in publications are inducted into Quill and Scroll.

Special Q & S awards in 1976 went to Mr. Harold Crawford, Dr. Earl Blemker and Kiwanis for their support.

National Honor Society

National Honor Society recognizes high school students for outstanding academic achievement coupled with service to the school and community, high character, and leadership ability. Only the top percentage of each Senior class is initiated into National Honor Society.

Mr. Arnold Graves assumed the sponsorship of National Honor Society for 1975-76. Students are placed on a list according to scholastic averages and then given points for service to the school through school activities and rated on character and leadership qualities by the faculty. The top students in the end are initiated into NHS.

SSS

The Sunshine Society sponsors many events during the year. The annual Christmas Dance and preparing food baskets for needy families are part of their December activities. During football and basketball Homecomings the SSS girls are working on various projects to make the Homecomings a success.

Flowers are an important part of SSS. During Homecoming they sell mums and for Valentines Day they deliver flowers purchased for students at school during the day. Another SSS project is serving at the Athletic Banquets and decorating the walls and tables of the cafeteria for the dinners.

Not all of SSS is work as the girls had fun projects too. One of the most successful was the slumber party in the fall to get the year started.

I-Art

Safety Week found the Industrial Arts Club working with Sgt. Richard Poe of the Indiana State Police. They served as watchers for various phases of the April Safety Week. Also during the year club members worked on an organ that flashed various colors of light in patterns. A cookout concluded the year's activities.

Officers for the club were Steve Glover, President; Tony Julian, Vice-President; Matt Berrick, Treasurer; and Ron Holloway, Secretary.

Student Council has Fun Night

The Student Council helped make the year more pleasant by planning and sponsoring various activities such as Homecoming, the annual Fun Night, convocations, and the election of class officers. The Council also buys things for the school to improve it as the sign board in front of the school and the naming of Woodman Boulevard.

To be a member of the Student Council a student must be passing in four solids and be elected by his classmates as a representative. The officers are elected the previous spring and the representatives from the classes in the fall after Homecoming. This gives the Council continuity from year to year.

PUB

Putting out a newspaper and a yearbook looks like easy work to those on the outside. But for those involved in the actual production, it is not as easy as it appears. There are constant deadlines to be met for both the TIMBERLINES and WOODMAN.

Both publications are totally self supporting gaining needed revenue from sales and advertising. The yearbook budget runs to $6,500, one half of which must be paid by subscriptions.

The TIMBERLINES, under the direction of a totally junior staff, went from to a magazine format during the year. Printing was done in the school print shop by the Graphic Arts classes under Mr. Steve Lane. Although many problems were encountered along the way, the new facilities lowered the cost while giving graphic arts students a chance to print a 'real' project.

Foreign Language fun

The language clubs have been active in extracurricular activities as a fun, out-of-the-classroom learning experience.

The French Club participated in a Halloween UNICEF drive. Later in the year they had a French Day when everyone spoke only French. In the spring they visited a French restaurant where the French Day winner got to eat free.

Latin Club auctioned off the slaves from the first year classes. These slaves did their masters bidding for a day and served them at the Latin Banquet. In the Italian style they had a pizza-party during the year.

Spanish Club ate at Valle Vista for a Mexican dinner, had a cook-out with a volleyball and football game, a skating party, and attended a Pacer basketball game.

The language clubs provide students a chance to experience the language in an informal setting thus gaining more enjoyment from a foreign language.

Annie get your gun

The well produced, fast paced musical "Annie Get Your Gun" opened on March 12-13 to one of the largest audiences in three years. The plot centered around Annie Oakley (Cindy Combs) a simple, unpretentious backwoods girl falling in love with Frank Butler (Duane Waite), the star sharpshooter of the Buffalo Bill Show.

Charlie (John Waite) issued a challenge to anyone in town take on Frank in a shooting match. After much persuasion by the hotel keeper (Mike Wilever) Annie accepts the challenge and defeats Frank earning herself a place in the Wild West Show and setting the stage for the competition.

Annie discovered she was in love with Frank, but the 'girl that he marries' has to be a lady, soft-skinned, sweet smelling, and well dressed. Annie in none of these and proceeds to change to attract Frank's attention only to lose him completely. Frank and Annie go their separate ways. Frank joins Pawnee Bill's (Rick Weignad) Far East Show, the major competition for Buffalo Bill. He soon discovers that he misses Annie and is in love with her. The financial merger between the two shows brings Annie and Frank back together again. Frank was still a cocksure performer, but Annie was an easy-going high spirited lady. The merger of the shows left the audience with the feeling Frank and Annie would merge (marry) too. But Frank and Annie would always stubbornly challenge each others shooting ability.

Flags and Rifles

A part of the Marching Woodmen that drew much attention this year was the Flag and Rifle Corps. Although in their second year with the band, this year's corps had snappy routines that caught the eye of all who watched the band perform at football, basketball, and in parades.

Many hours of practice and drill went into the flags and rifles. After school hours and evenings were not unusual as summer hours passed into State Fair time right through cold football games. Cindy Combs served as Corps Captain.

Sp-ir-it

The Booster Club and Cheerleaders sponsored the many pep sessions during the year to raise school spirit. Skits were put on by the Senior girls, Booster Club officers, Varsity Cheerleaders, and basketball team throughout the year. At Homecoming everyone observed Mr. Robert Silcock receiving a bucket of water in the face, Mike Crockett being the cutest baby, basketball players having relays eating pop corn, and Gary Ferguson being honored as having the sexiest legs on the team.

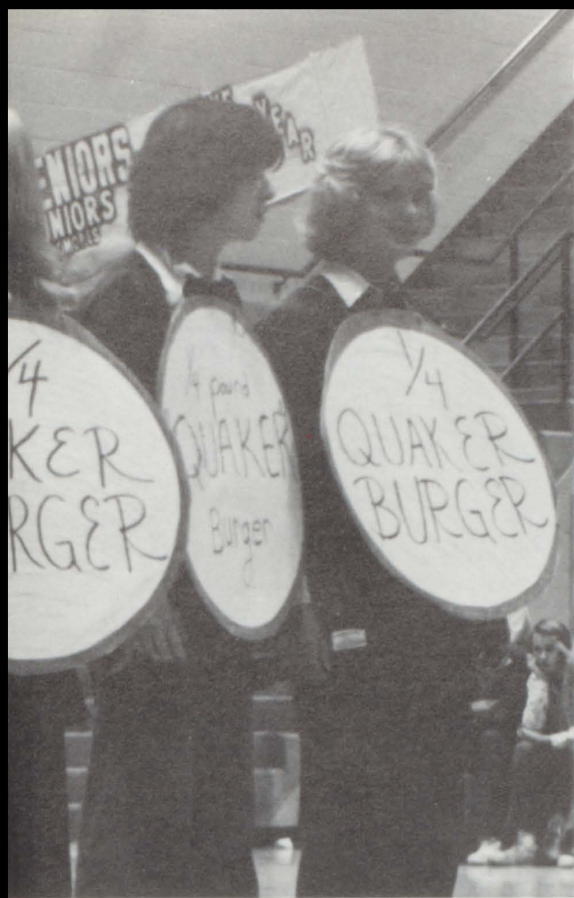

Contests were held between classes to raise money for the cheerleading fund for the signs and paint and other materials used throughout the year.

Griders go 7-3

Coming back strong, after being 1-3 early in the season, the Woodmen finished with an excellent record of 7-3. Led by outstanding play on both sides of the line by Dan "Monk" Williams, the Woodmen won the last six games in a row. They outscored their opponents 150-69.

Williams proved to be the true team leader by being elected co-team captain as well as MVP. He rushed for 760 yards, and led the team in defense. Other seniors on the team this year included Mike Schaefer, Ron Seale, Steve Epstein, Terry McLaughlin, Mike Prince, Mike Crockett, Bill Pumphrey, Ken Scott, Randy Dawson, Rob Cotton, Rick Wiegand, Josh Hill, Dick Purcell, Dan Henning, Rick Bowers; and managers Larry Mosley, Ron Holloway, and Leroy Delph.

The biggest win was the 3-0 victory over Speedway after three consecutive losses. A 42 yard field goal by Peter Wittig led to the victory. Wittig also kicked a 44 yarder earlier.

The arm of quarterback Steve Epstein helped the season along. Epstein completed 46% of his passes for 450 yards. Primary receivers were Gary Ferguson, 196 yards, and Mike Crockett, 147 yards.

JV win

Strength is the key to the Reserve Football team. Never to be outdone, each year the Reserves come up and meet the challenge of another good season. It is little wonder the Woodmen are feared on the field. And it is little wonder that they go on to make a winning varsity team.

With assistant coach Dave Toner, Coach Whitson put powerful men on the field. Jarnagin, Janes, Leveritt, Ferrill helped lead the Woodmen to another winning season.

Many reserves found they were called on to play some varsity for the experience. All the old rivals fell—Center Grove, Beech Grove, Plainfield, Franklin, Whiteland—all were ground under by the strength of the Woodmen.

Freshmen go undefeated 8-0-1

Coach Robert Silcock's freshman football team ran over every opponent they played, scoring 179 points and giving up a meager 27 points, leaving them 8-0-1 on the season.

Dave Schaefer led the scoring with eight touchdowns, two run conversions, and six kick conversions for a 58 point total. Larry Holder scored 50 and Dave Kirkhoff scored 34 as the freshman backfield scored from anywhere.

Schaefer led in rushing with 591 yards and a total yards gained of 715.

The mighty defense was led by Schaefer, Ron Earl, Mike Leveritt, and Tom Julian.

—by Bill Pumphrey

Long year

The Varsity Woodmen suffered through a long season finding very few victories. Although they did better their 1975 season record, the team lacked heights and experience against some strong opponents.

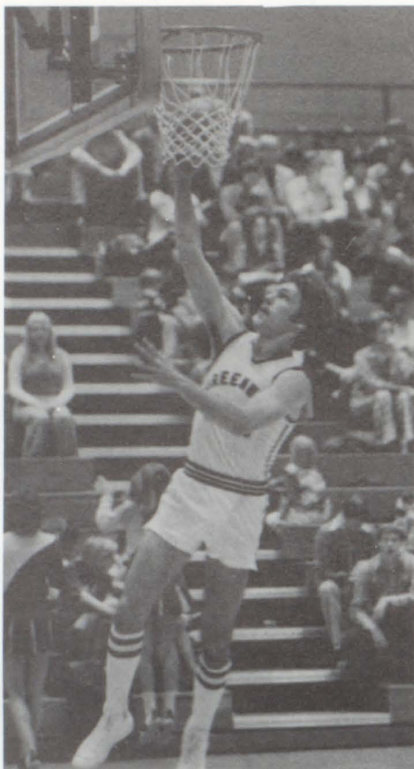

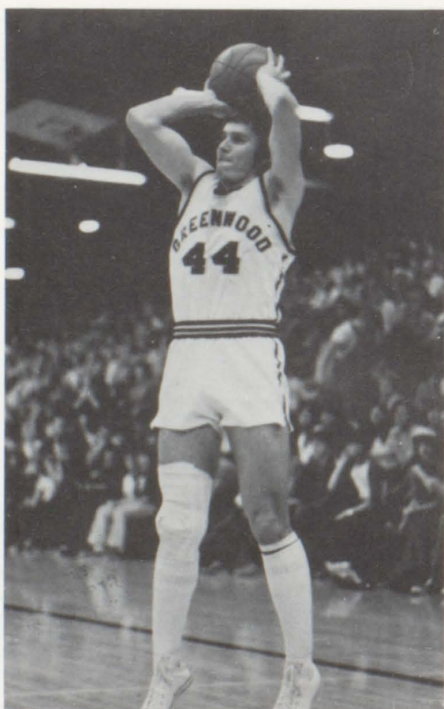

Most of the team was Seniors and they left a large hole to be filled by the upcoming reserves. Throughout the year the team consistently improved as individual team members spent many long hours practicing.

Frustration was the key word for the Woodmen. Often playing excellent basketball in the first half, they would find themselves on the short end at the final buzzer. With the return of Steve Garbe and Dan Henning the team began to look better in the latter half of the season. But Garbe's knee was weak and Henning missed half the season.

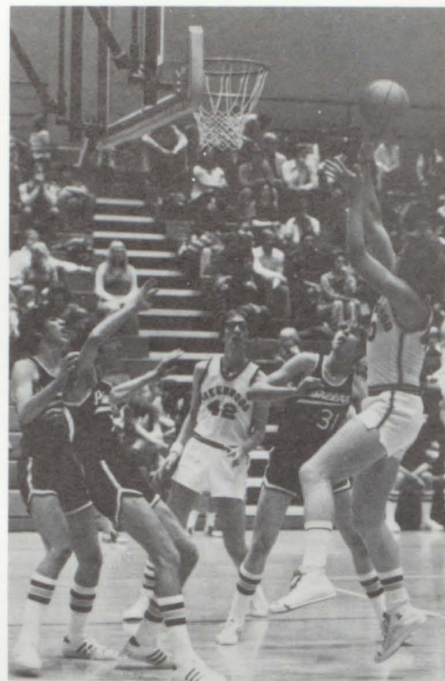

Dave Rogers developed into a strong player as the year progressed as did Randy McLeod, Mike Schaefer, and Gary Ferguson. Shuffling reserves into the lineup, Coach Haynes worked to find a working combination.

The highlight of the season was the Center Grove matches. Outclassed the first time, the Woodmen gave the Trojans a scare on two more outings.

The Woodmen are still in a building program—maybe next year.

The Reserve Basketball team played very well under first year coach Dave Toner. In most of their games they played close enough to win, but the young team had trouble overcoming some weaknesses. The team finished 7-13.

Mark Leveritt and Rob Haynes led in the statistics. Leveritt was a double winner in total rebounds and field goal percentages, shooting 54%. Freshman Haynes led in five categories including scoring with 246 points, scoring average at 12.9, free throw percentage with 69%, assists with 27, and recoveries with 36.

The youth on this year's team will provide a place to start building a stronger varsity program in the next three years.

—by Mark Veach

A-B team gain valued experience

The A and B Freshman teams gained valuable experience on the hardwood during the season. Losing many games by just a few points, the team went on to improve with each game. Many of the team members had not played together before in the style of basketball Coaches Don Leach and Bob Silcock taught. Although it was a long season, it proved worthwhile in developing talent for the future.

Some of the better Freshmen were moved up to the Reserve team during the season which hurt the young Woodmen. Losing height and outside shooting power to the Reserves left the Freshmen frustrated in the close games. Overall the teams had nothing to be ashamed of as in each game different individuals took up the slack proving the talent was present. It was a good place to start building for the future.

Volleyball - winners

Both Reserve and Varsity volleyball teams ended their seasons with winning records: Reserve 8-3, Varsity 8-5. Coach Cheryl Flick feels it was the best season the reserves have had. "They began to shape up during the end of the season. A lot of the girls will be returning, so we should have a strong team next year."

The Varsity team was the first to become Mid-State Conference Champs. Honors went to Debbie Hommel, Jenay Craig, and Cleone Heebner for making the Mid-State All-Conference team. The team came in second at Johnson County Tourney and were runners-up in the Sectionals. Graduating seniors are Molly Brougher, Marty Walker, Jenay Craig, Cleone Heebner, Kelli McFarland and Debbie Hommel.

First Regional hosted

The girls reserve basketball team ended their season 4-7. The team had many young and new girls, so they are looking toward a good season next year.

The varsity team ended with a winning season, 12-5. This was the first year girls basketball had sectional, regional and state tournaments. The team will be losing five seniors who are as follows: Marty Walker, Karen Lawson, DeAnne Julian, Jenay Craig, and Cleone Heebner. Special awards went to Cindy Schier for Mental Attitude, Jenay Craig with free throw percentage and rebounds, DeAnne Julian was awarded for leading in assists, and Cleone Heebner won the shooting percentage award. The team next year will come back with two starters and a strong back-up of substitutes.

Clephane, Talbott make State

The varsity wrestling team had another admirable season under the guidance of Coach Robert Whitson. After surviving three months of sweat and tired muscles, the grapplers posted a striking record of 10-3 in dual meets, subdued only by Beech Grove, Perry Meridian, and Franklin Central. Besides having a noteworthy record in dual meets the team also came in second in the Mid-State, first in the County, first in the Sectional, first in the Regional, and seventh in the Semi-State.

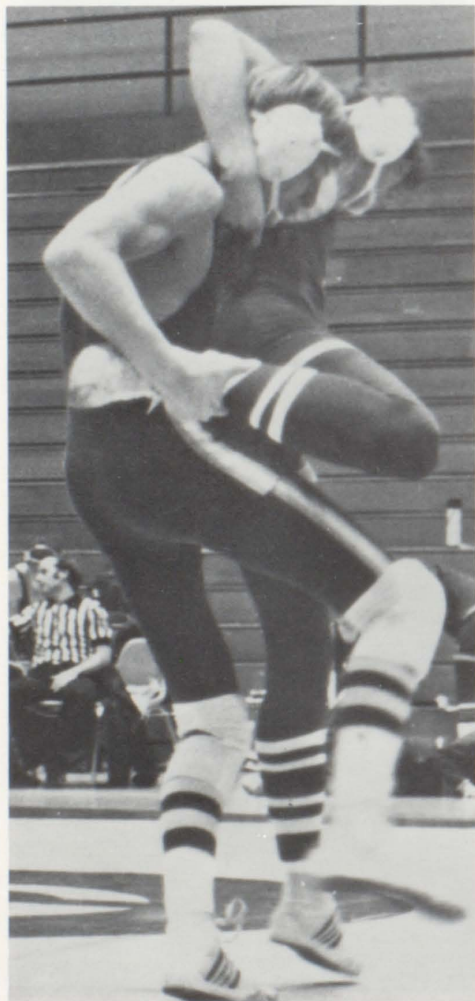

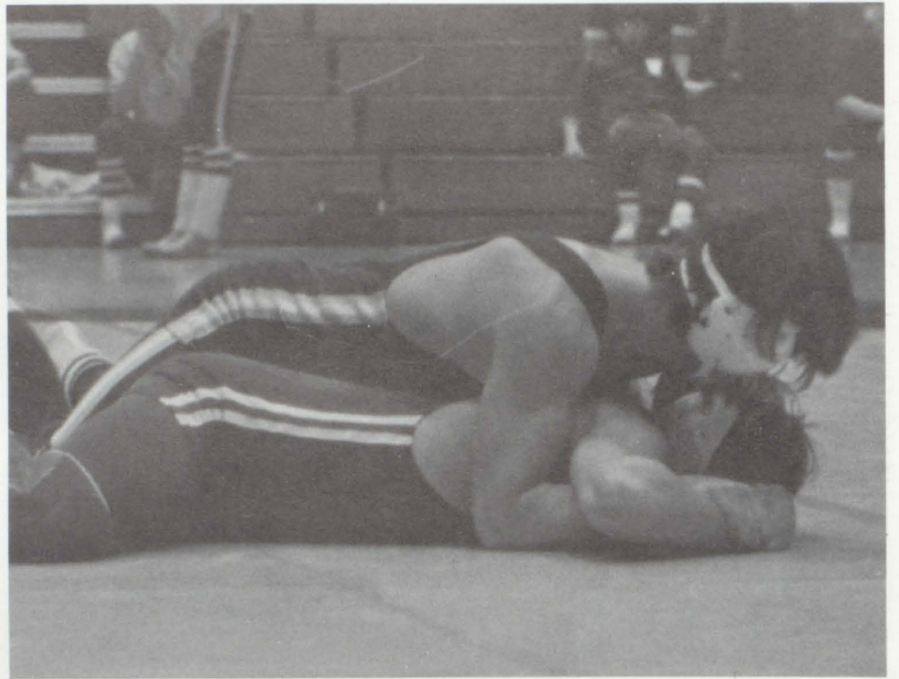

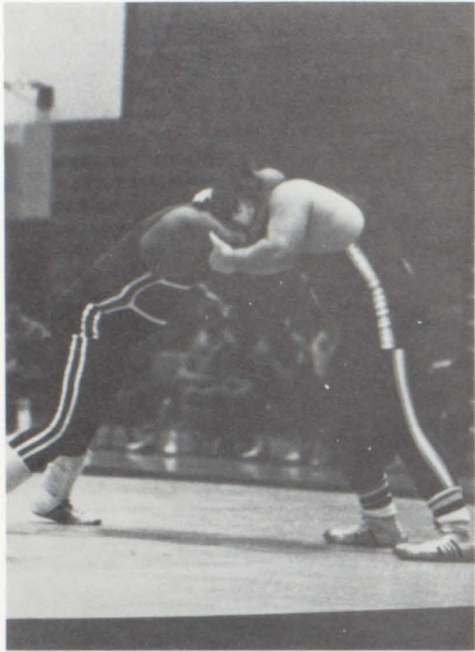

Junior Gene Talbott matched a state of equality with Andy Davidson by having 16 pins in one season, Talbott was also the Most Valuable with 62 total points. Roger McIninch had the fastest pin, which was 33 seconds. McIninch also had 36 reversals. Pete Wittig and Jay Farmer each had 29 takedowns. Randy Clephane had the most nearfalls for the season, which was 35.

And special note should be given to Pat "Fish" Allen and Gene Talbott for winning the Regional in their respectable weightclasses. And also note should be given to Randy Clephane and Gene Talbott for going to the State-Finals.

—by Fred Humphrey

Stan Blaase MVR

The harriers of the Cross Country team, coached by Mr. John Irons, finished the season with a respectable record of 7-4. Although the harriers were defeated in their first three meets, they rebounded to win seven, one a three way meet.

Franklin, Center Grove, and Indian Creek fell to the team as they finished second in the County, fourth in the Mid-State, and tenth in the Sectional.

Senior Stan Blaase was voted the Most Valuable Runner, Most Improved and also received a 1000 mile award. Other outstanding runners were junior Eric Hopkins, sophomore Dennis Prince, and freshman Dane Commiskey.

Tennis aces

The 1975 Tennis season was a disappointing season record-wise for the Woodmen. But many young Woodmen gained valuable experience for next year. Young players as Steve Bohall, Ron Fox, Mark Ratliff, and Jay Farmer with the help of experience from Dave Blemker should build a winning team.

The Varsity finished 2-10 for the season placing 3rd in the Mid-State and 6th in the County. They were defeated in the first round of the Sectionals.

Award winners for the tennis team included Dean Blemker, Most Valuable, and Steve Bohall, Most Improved.

With the golf team changing its home course this year from El Dorado to the new Valle Vista Golf Course, Brian Malson was still able to lead the Woodmen as a constant medalist helping the team finish a fine year.

The underclassmen should be threats next year with Malson, Brian Salwowski, and the freshmen Rob Haynes, Ted Donner, and Jeff Ader all returning. The sixth spot on the team will be left for anyone who can put together a consistent game. Dean Blemker was the only one who graduated from the team.

Records fall

The Greenwood Varsity and Reserve track teams recently completed a season in which three school records were broken. Stan Blaase broke the 2 Mile Run record with a time of 9:55.0, Gary Ferguson went 6'5" in the high jump event and Mike Crockett bettered his own record by lowering the school standard by running a 9.9 100 Yard Dash. At press time Crockett, Ferguson, and Blaase were headed for the regional meet after each qualified in the sectional with Crockett taking the title in the 440 Yard Dash and Ferguson skying to take the high jump. At the awards banquet Mike Crockett was again named Most Valuable Runner for the third straight year and Gary Ferguson and Kevin Downey were named comental attitude award winners.

Girls Track

Despite the rain and cold weather, which canceled one-third of the Girls Track schedule for the season, Coach Sandy Fosler led her team of thirteen to a number of individual wins. Most of the team were freshmen and sophomores which leaves a good building point for track teams in the next two years.

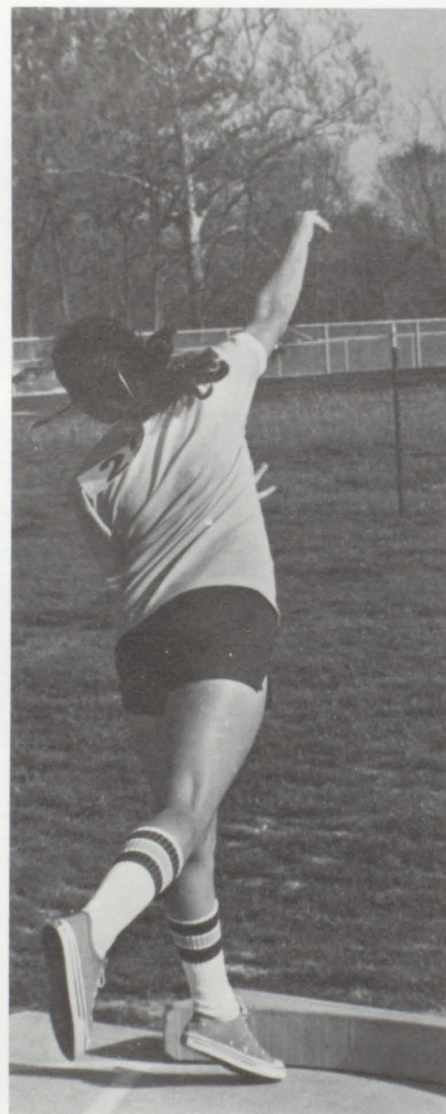

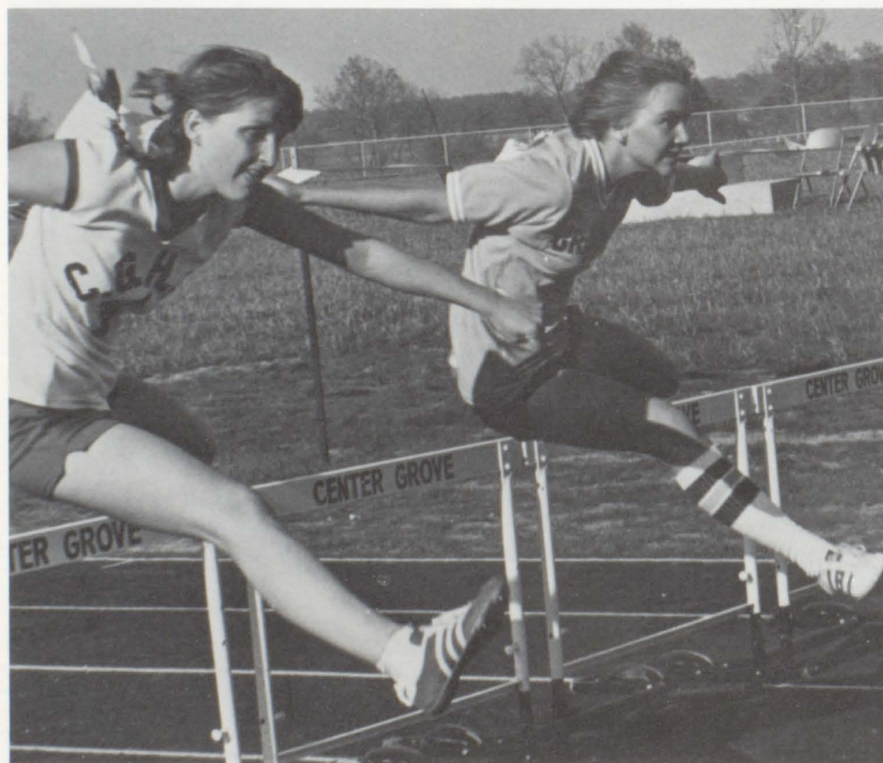

The team took a fourth in the County this year. Three qualified for the Sectionals run May 18. Cheri Anderson, for the second year, in the 220 and the hurdles, Robin Wallace in the 100, and Delisa Chenoweth in the softball throw represented Greenwood.

Woodmen win

The Greenwood Varsity Baseball squad, under Coach Gary Vandergriff, got off to another great season. After finishing in the top eight teams in the State in 1975, the 1976 squad opened the season rated 18th in the State. At midway through the season, as the book goes to press, the team stands 10-4 with a good chance to repeat their 1975 championship record.

The Woodmen are led by senior pitching ace Mike Schaefer and three-time junior letterman Jim Wheat. The two have won eight of the 14 games played.

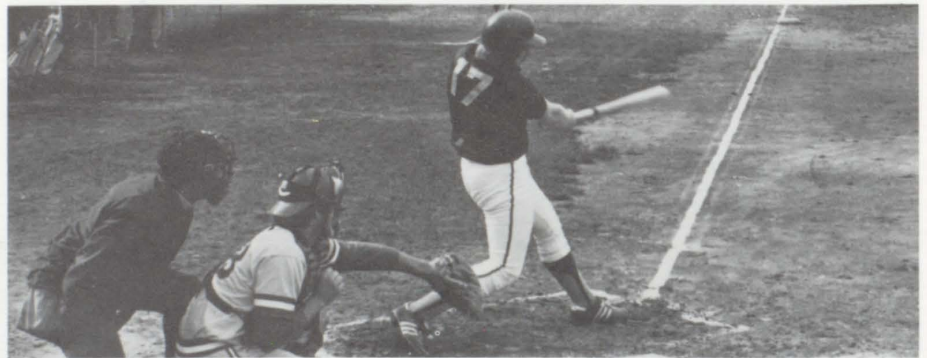

In the batting department, Super Soph Scott Harder leads the team in home runs with six and in batting averages of .500.

One of the key reasons for the success of the team is the leadership of seniors Randy McLeod, Robert Byrne, Don Hill, Bruce Meier, Mike Prince, and Mike Schaefer.

Exhibits expand

For the Art Department Christmas came in February as they received quite a bit of long awaited equipment in one day. For the photography classes were two new enlargers. For the jewelry classes was a centrifugal casting machine and a burn-out kiln, which allows more variety in design.

Some of the students won awards in the Central Indiana Scholastic Art Competition and went on to compete in the national contest. Eric Kincaid won a Hallmark Award in the Regional Show, which is equivalent to a Best of Show.

With the addition of Mr. Myron Blankenbaker, the Art Department continues to expand its offerings in Fine Art, Craft Art, Jewelry, and Photography.

Home-Ec

Home Economics is growing and expanding its courses. Two new courses which will be put into the curriculum if there is enough interest will be Family Living and Housing and Home Equipment. Both would be open to both girls and boys and would cover various aspects of family life.

Child Development class proved to be one of the most interesting and varied class. Students were able to observe children and their behavior. From this they learned how children grow.

Interior Decorating also added variety to the classes. Students learned how to blend colors and textures in rooms and complete houses for the most appealing results. They also studied styles of furniture.

PE offers break

Physical Education gave students a break from the regular academic curriculum to develop physically. Basketball, volleyball, soccer, baseball, and field hockey are just a few activities.

Advanced P.E. is also offered. This co-ed class started the year with cave exploring, water skiing, bicycling, and roller skating. They also went into motorcycling and tennis.

The health classes spent the year studying hygiene, nutrition, and diseases of the body. They learned how alcohol and drugs and tobacco effect the body and its functions.

Band No. 1

Instrumental music is a course of study that requires much time and dedication on the part of students. It is not only the marching band, which is the first thing everyone thinks of when band is mentioned at Greenwood. Although the Marching Woodmen have brought much recognition to the program, the Concert Band, Symphonic Band, and Wind Ensemble also play a major role in the program.

Jazz Band, Stage Band, and Pep Band are all extra-curricular, but many students participated in them giving many after school hours to the band. These bands won first division honors in all the contests they entered during the year in Indiana State Music Contests.

Saturday morning for many bandmen meant getting up early to go to lessons at school. Private lessons were important for those students who excelled in the solo divisions of contests. Dedication is a word known well by members of the instrumental music program and has made the bands number one.

la ti do

Four choirs provided GCHS with vocal music throughout the year. Concert Choir, Mixed Chorus, Advanced Girls Glee Club, and Girls Glee Club performed under the direction of Mr. Ronald J. Bell.

Local civic groups benefited from the Vocal Music Department's talents as the groups entertained the Lion's Club, Kiwanis, and Rotary Club. Westminster Village found the Greenwood Choirs a favorite for special programs.

"Annie Get Your Gun" was the major production of the Music Department. Cindy Combs, winner of the National School Choral Award, was Annie Oakley, western girl out to get her a man.

Private lessons were also a part of the work of a choir member. Those that won recognition at State level contest found lessons and lots of practice the key to winning. In Choral Contests, this year's choirs won first places consistently.

Science dissected

Dissecting, experimenting in the refraction of light, and studying microorganisms led the inquisitive minds of science students into the depths of the scientific field. From General Science to Advanced Chemistry, students looked for laboratory information in the many aspects of science.

Some students took on individual projects and worked in the labs to test various theories of chemistry, physics, and biology. The opportunity for students to work on their own projects helps develop their powers of reasoning and perception. Many advanced students are planning to continue in the field of science.

Math equals fun

The mathematics department, in order to teach students the basic proprieties of math and how to think analytically, has a variety of classes to fit the individual student's needs. Studies range from Basic Math to Calculus, with the addition of an Analytical Geometry class to replace the usual College Algebra. This new course offers better college preparation.

The department uses many visual aids to assist students in seeing the principles of mathematics. Large geometric figures illustrating parts of cones or triangles or other surface areas are used to demonstrate.

—by Chris Childers

World problems discussed

With the purpose of acquainting students with the past and present day problems of today's world, the Social Science department helps students prepare for life by making them aware of some of these problems.

Economics, Government, Sociology, and various history courses make up the curriculum of the Social Science department. A Mock Congress, debates, and outside speakers help students with understanding the problems of the world.

Enrollment declines

Greenwood High School offers students their choice of three foreign languages to take as elective courses. The classes offered are Latin, French, and Spanish.

Foreign languages give students a better understanding of their own language as much of English is derived from one or more of these three. Although it is not required to graduate, students taking a language have found it easier to master English and to go on in college.

Not all the emphasis is on speaking as much time is devoted to learning about another culture and another people's way of living.

English is ...

A new course, Time Magazine, was introduced into the English Department curriculum this year. The course deals with the weekly news magazine, Time, as the basic text. Discussions, debates, short compositions, vocabulary and informal speeches are the main activities planned for the course.

Mythology and Gothic Literature, Mass Media and Poetry were the three courses dropped from the present number of thirty-one courses offered. Insufficient interest in these courses resulted in their departure from the variety of courses available to the English students.

English offers variety

During the 1975-76 school year, a total of thirty-one English courses were offered. If a student wants to take a certain course, there has to be enough interest to justify retaining that course for the next year or next semester. In order to keep any particular course, for example Pre-College Grammar, enough students must show interest in that course. If no or little interest is shown, that course is dropped from the curriculum. If sufficient interest is shown for the following year, the course is then brought back and presented to the students.

The students have a wide variety of courses they may select from. If a student prefers the more classical style of writing then he or she may choose English Literature or Shakespeare. If that is not favorable to his tastes, classes such as Introduction to Writing, Fiction, Public Speaking and Debate offer many different aspects of the English program. All in all, these are but a few of the many choices.

Business courses aid practical knowledge

The Business curriculum prepares students to go out into the world of business. Courses range from General Business, a starter course, to Office Practice, a capstone course for secretaries. The Business department provides the skills and attitudes needed to acquire and retain good jobs.

Typing introduces different styles of letters and manuscripts while shorthand teaches speed writing. Bookkeeping and Office Practice prepare students for daily office routine. Consumer Economics and Business Law add practical knowledge of the business world to the business skills.

I-Arts grows

The Industrial Arts department was relatively active this year. Two new teachers were added—Mr. Robert Schimmel in Power Mechanics and Mr. William Boland in metals.

For the first year, the Printing classes took on the school newspaper as a printing project. Although many different types of problems were encountered the classes benefitted from having printed a job everyone could see and appreciate. The class will continue to print the newspaper and add forms and applications for the schools to their job.

The purpose of the Industrial Arts department is to provide training in various areas of metals, woods, and mechanics that will serve as a basis for future employment.

C-9 students co-op

Central Nine has proven one of the most beneficial additions to the high school curriculum. With the combined efforts of nine area schools, many vocational classes are available.

Junior and Senior students participate in the program for one half the school day, the other half being spent in their home high school taking required courses for graduation.

Vocational opportunities give students the chance to learn a job skill through participation and practice rather than just book learning.

Those students who do well in vocational training classes are assisted in finding jobs in their area through a co-op program during the year and after completion of high school. Many continue their studies in vocational training institutions throughout Indiana.

Classes range from Practical Nursing to Horticulture. Central Nine offers high school students a new and valuable source of education.

215 Seniors look to future

The class of 1976 was led by Peter Wittig as President and Dan Williams as Vice President. Brenda Terhune and Tammy Frost filled the jobs of Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

Lisa Arnholt was named Valedictorian and Dean Blemker was Salutatorian with averages in the high 90's.

Homecoming Queen in football went to Mazie Smart and at Basketball Homecoming Brenda Terhune was Queen and Gary Ferguson was King. Prom time brought the class Dean Mathis as King and Rhonda Glidden as Queen.

Mike Crockett not only was an outstanding football player and trackster, but was named the cutest baby on the football team. The class showed spirit as they won many spirit contests even though at pep sessions they had the fewest in attendance.

During basketball Gary Ferguson was voted to have the sexiest legs on the team, a part of spirit week activities. Peter Wittig proved he should have tried his style in basketball as during the homecoming pep session he won the battle of free throws between the class presidents.

Being a senior was not only fun and games. Being a Senior meant lots of responsibility. It meant leading the underclassmen in attitude and spirit. It meant deciding on what to do after May 23 and there was no more high school. It meant leaving old friends and familiar surroundings for those of a new adventure.

As graduation grew closer Seniors reflected on the last twelve years of schooling. There were the recesses, the show and tell times, the games, the class parties at Halloween, when everyone dressed up in costumes, and Christmas, and the end of the year. The Middle School days were filled with changing classes and different teachers each class. It was the beginning of the mighty Woodmen athletic program as Middle School teams began competing. And then no one ever thought being a Senior would ever come.

May 23 some 215 Seniors marched into the gymnasium in which they had many happy times. It was the last time the Class of 1976 would be all together to share a part of high school memories.

Honors Day brought many seniors and underclassmen much deserved recognition for achievements during the year. It was the first opportunity for the seniors to wear their caps and gowns as well as the first opportunity to really realize that the year was all but over. May 13, 1976 was Honors Day at GCHS. RIGHT: Vicki Owen got into the spirit of things as she filled her squirt gun in preparation for a long hot wait on stage. ABOVE: Mr. Harold Crawford presented awards to students. Adrianna received a school medal as Greenwood's foreign exchange student. ABOVE RIGHT: Eric Kincaid receives one of his many awards. Eric was recognized as the winner of several Art awards including the coveted Hallmark Award for his scholastics art work. Eric was also named one of the Danforth Foundation Citizenship Award winners. Valedictorian Lisa Arnholt and Salutatorian Dean Blemker were also recognized for their outstanding scholastic achievements.

Graduation

May 23, 1976 marked the day the Class of 1976 left Greenwood Community High School for the final time. Commencement evening 217 Seniors picked up their diplomas and began a new career.

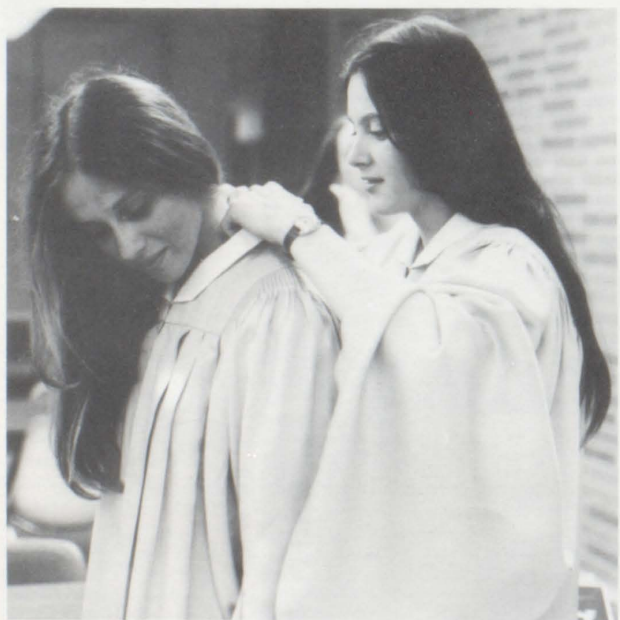

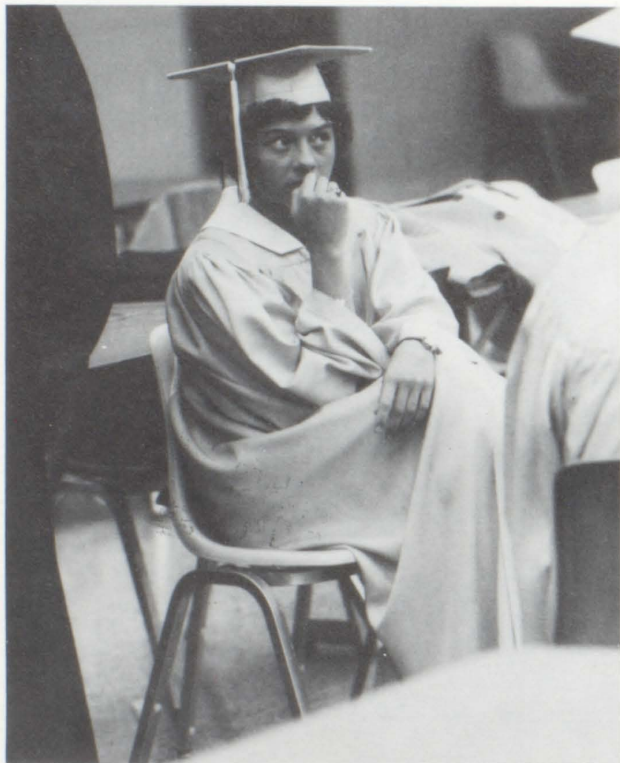

Dean Blemker and Lisa Arnholt addressed the class and audience in remembering the past and looking to the future. They shared what four years at GCHS had been for them and how they looked at what was to come for class members as they entered colleges, vocational schools, military service, jobs, and marriage.

By 9:00 p.m. Dr. Earl Blemker and Mr. Harold Crawford had conferred diplomas and the future began.

Stairway to Heaven

On May 1, 1976 from 9 p.m. to midnight the Junior and Senior prom took place at the Franklin College Student Center.

Pictures were taken of the couples who desired them and music was provided by "Taxi." "Taxi" entertained with fast music for the less inhibited couples and slow music for the more romantic minded couples.

Rhonda Glidden and Dean Mathis were crowned Queen and King, and Liza Scotten and Bill Cannon were named Princess and Prince of the 1976 Prom, "Stairway to Heaven."

Table centerpieces were small blue mums which were taken home by some of the attending couples after the Prom.

Juniors plan their futures

Trying to decide what you want to be at age 16 can get tough. Especially if you are also trying to pass U.S. History and that final English requirement. But part of being a Junior, is deciding on colleges, careers, and getting ready for the final year at GCHS.

The P.S.A.T. and the S.A.T. were part of the juniors getting prepared for making future decisions. Visiting college representatives and recruiting officers for the armed forces were ways the juniors used to get out of classes.

Class officers included Freda Copley, President; Bill Cannon, Vice President; Paula Meyer, Secretary; and Cindy Schier, Treasurer. The most important part of their jobs was to plan for the prom. Changing locations from Lafayette Square to Franklin College provided the class an opportunity to decorate creatively. Working with the prom committee was Mrs. Kathy Atkinson, class sponsor.

Making money for the prom was a major concern of class officers. The concession stand at the football games was turned over to the band parents. The juniors operated concessions during the basketball season and wrestling meets. Sponsoring the concessions stands was Mr. William McFerran, class sponsor.

Juniors were heard on the Student Council. With Kate Chanley serving as Secretary, the council members included Liza Scotten, Janet Hommel, Dede Cathcart, Paula Meyer.

Athletically the juniors provided the backbone of the teams. Outstanding in the class were Bob Harris, Brian Malson, John Dennis, and Randy Clephane. Beth Day represented the class as a member of the Homecoming Court in football. Liza Scotten and Don Foley were King and Queen candidates during basketball season.

Most of the juniors had the same sentiment about the year. It was fun, but they were waiting for that final year when they would be Seniors. The class was successful in all their endeavors from academics to athletics to activities.

Class rings ordered by Sophs

Ordering class rings is the most important part of the Sophomore year. It signifies attaining the rank of an upperclassman and indicating school pride. But the year for the sophomores was not all excitement. There were the test batteries to be taken, decisions to be made on selecting courses of study, and planning to be done for the next two years of school.

Moving from the ranks of "Rookies" the sophomores found the year filled with extra-curricular activities. Class officers were elected to represent the class for the first time. Elected President was Becky Burge. Vice-President was Diane Mitchell; Secretary was Erin Chamberlin; and Treasurer was Cindy Carson. Together they organized the activities for the class during Homecoming.

At Homecoming the class placed second in the float contest. Jenny Cardwell represented the class in the Queen's court. Jay Farmer and Julie Cardwell were King and Queen contestants during Basketball Homecoming.

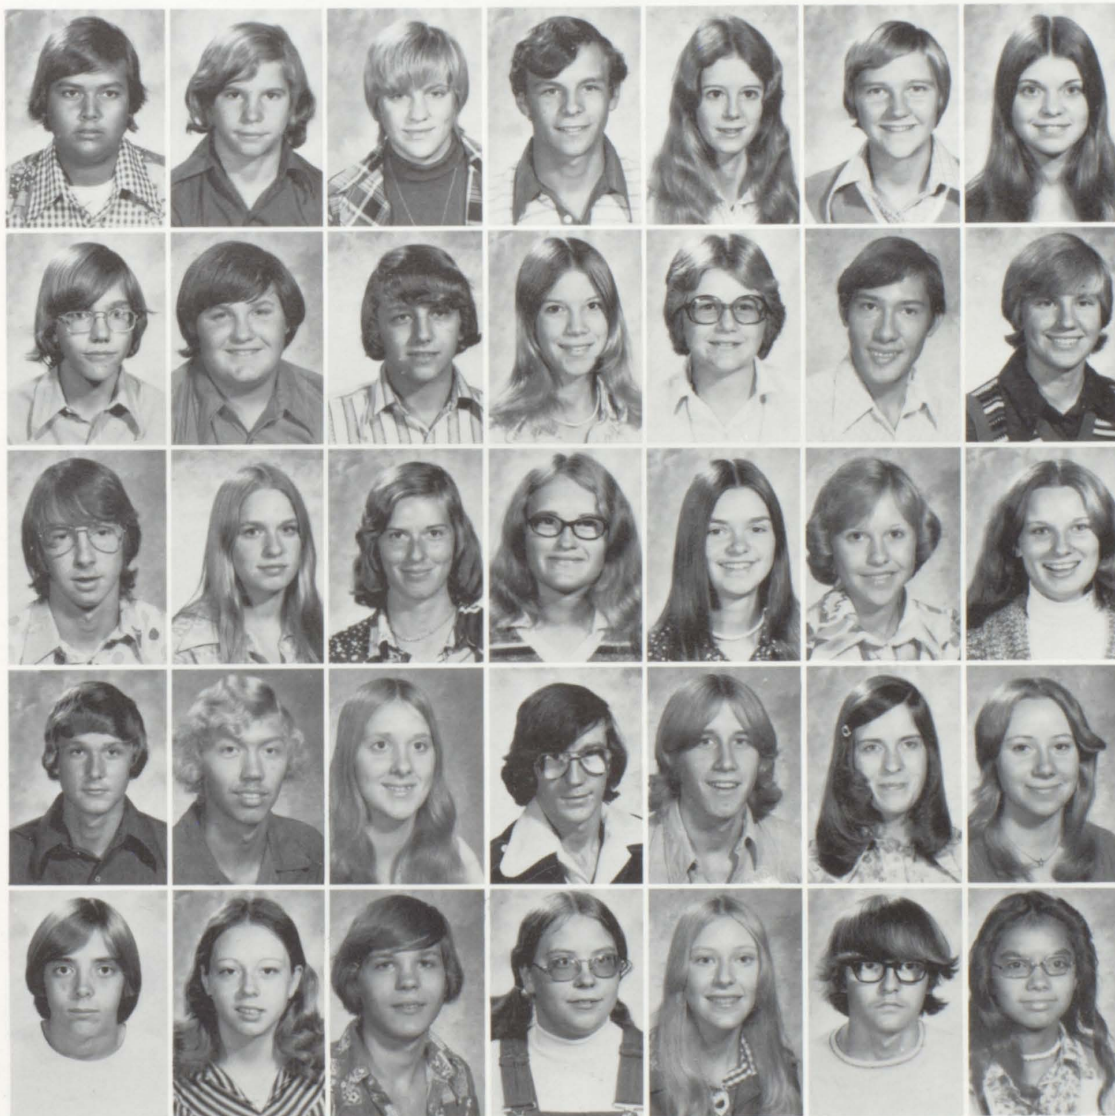

Representing the class on the Student Council were Becky Burge, Diane Mitchell, Cindy Carson, John Beckley, and Julie Cardwell.

Academically, the sophomores were able to take advantage of the elective curriculum in various departments. They became active in theater with Melody Nay, Lisa Skirvin, and Beth Smock taking leads in the fall plays. Others found a place in athletics as Bobby Jahn, Chuck Vest, Dennis Parrish, Jay Farmer, and Greg Watts pace winning teams during the year as they won team and individual honors for their efforts.

With more class members than the Seniors, the sophomores led the way in spirit with locker and hall decorations, a complete sophomore reserve cheerleading squad, and numerous spirit sticks.

With much to look forward to in the next two years, the sophomores geared up for working concessions as juniors, planning the prom, and being school leaders in activities, academics, and athletics.

Frosh learn and adjust

August came all too early for the Freshmen class. Strange hallways, unfamiliar teachers, new classes all left the freshmen in a daze the first weeks of school. No more had the novices gotten settled in, than they were barraged with a battery of tests. There were tests to judge their achievement, tests to rate their IQ, and tests to indicate their vocational interests.

Not all was work. The class got their first experience in float building for the Homecoming. They also elected their first Homecoming Court representative, Dawn Wright. During basketball Homecoming Sherry Boling and Ted Donnar represented the class. Student Council representatives were also elected by the class.

After the first semester, freshmen found the going easier. No longer were Seniors giving them the wrong directions to classes or picking on them because they were novices. They began to know the teachers by name and even ventured to recite in classes. The Class of 1979 began to take an active part in school activities.

Participation in sports brought them further recognition. The football team went undefeated and only tied one game. The basketball teams also posted respectable records over the season. Some found sports on the reserve wres-ting team, the track team, and the girls' basketball and volleyball teams. They proved that they were one of the most spirited classes at GCHS as they decorated lockers and won the spirit stick during pep sessions.

At the end of the year, the class elected their first class officers to serve them as sophomores. They survived their year as novices in the world of upperclassmen as they planned a welcome for the Class of 1980.

As one freshman put it, "I was scared when the year started, but I'm glad it's over. No one will cut in front of me in the lunchline again, or send me to the wrong class, or try to harrass me."

It takes more to run a high school than meets the eye. Because of the office personnel in the main office students can take full advantage of the educational facilities.

Responsible for GCHS is Mr. Harold Crawford, principal. His administrative duties include building and maintenance activities as well as personnel.

Handling student problem and discipline is Mr. Leonard Scotten. He also helps set up special student programs such as intramurals to enrich the offerings of the school.

Mrs. Virginia Stretchberry and Mrs. Peggy Dillon, with the help of student office workers, take care of all secretarial and record keeping duties.

What was considered a landmark in Greenwood was razed in July—V. O. Isom Central Elementary School. Built in 1901, the building has withstood many years of constant use and watched as thousands of Greenwood students passed through the halls. The new Isom Central building will be opened in the fall, but it will not be quite the same as the old towering brick building that held so many memories.

In 1864 the first elementary school was erected at Meridian and Vroadway Streets. The frame structure had two rooms and was replaced in 1865 by a brick building at Meridian and Wiley. Two fires took away school facilities from the community. Additions were made to the buildings to house more students and athletics. Students from 1-12 attended the same school.

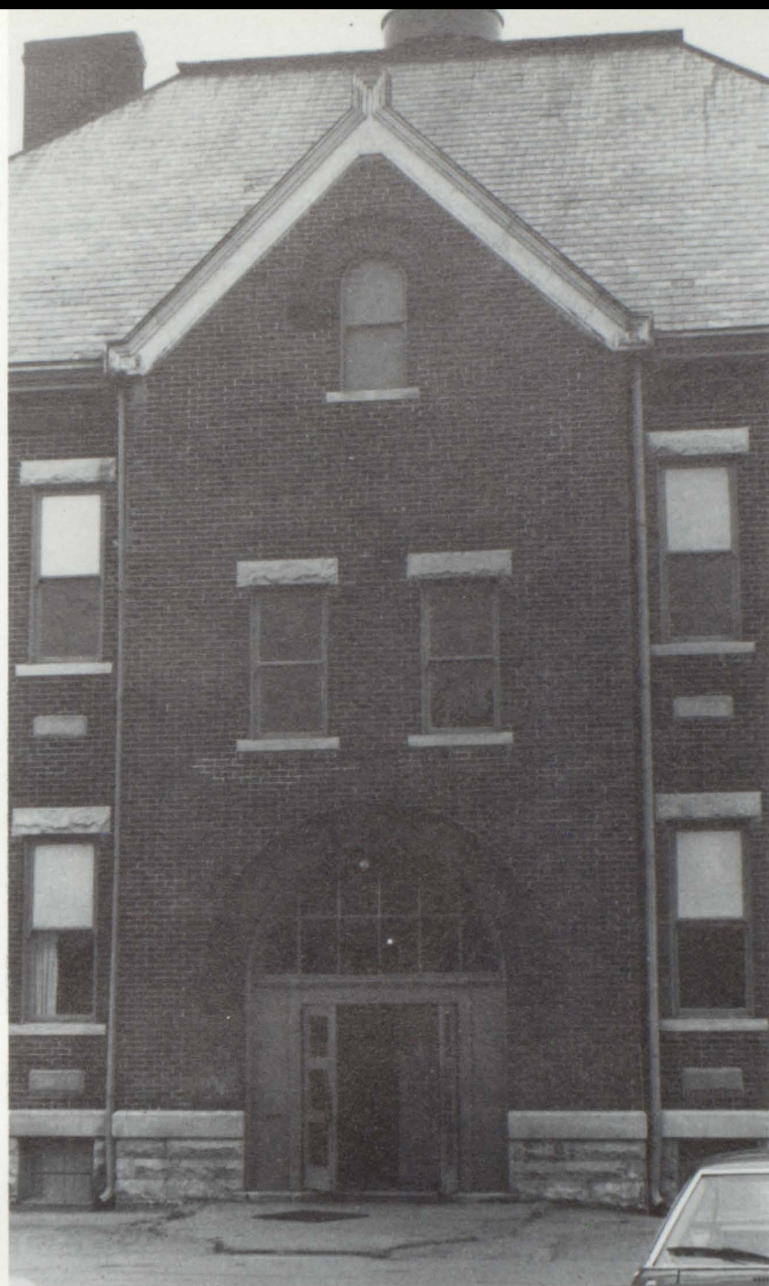

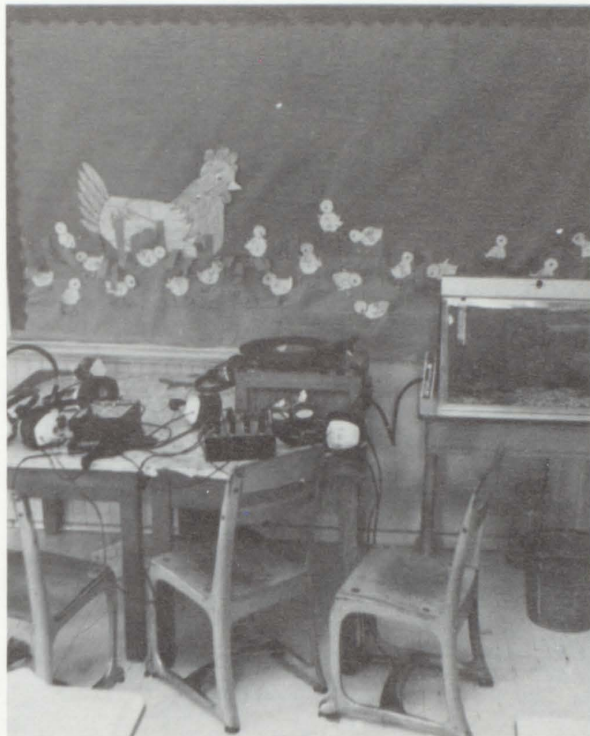

Mr. V. O. Isom, named principal of Central Elementary, was instrumental in the changes in the school. It was named in his honor in 1965 after his death.
