Life moves pretty fast, if you don't stop and look around, you could miss it. This is a saying which best described the 1988-1989 school year at Greenwood Community High School. With our willingness to achieve everything within our grasps and take one step beyond the ordinary, the students at GCHS caused life to move pretty fast. Our honors in the classroom, in athletics, in band, and in other extracurricular activities proved this. Our ability to work well with our peers caused a unity with fellow students felt throughout the school.

We learned from books, teachers, and coaches, but most of all, we learned from each other. The students at GCHS were not afraid to take time-out from their activities and appreciate life for what it is. After all, if you don't stop and look around, you could miss what high school is all about. We stopped, we looked around and this is what we saw.....

...best friends

High school is a time for many memorable experiences. During these times it is important to have a friend, not just any friend, but someone who is your "best friend." Your best friend is someone you trust with your deepest secrets, someone who stands beside you through thick and thin. Common interests and similar beliefs are the foundation for such a friendship, which grows with laughter and tears. Weeding through each other's shortcomings and finding the good inside sets a best friend apart from other friends. Looking around GCHS some "best friends" stood out from the crowd.

1. Mike Gillock hangs around with his best friend, Anthony Candlish. 2. Scott Beasley, Greg Stilley, Lance Pringle, Adam Nuhfer, and Jason Baker are five of the best friends. 3. Stephanie Flanagan and Amie Jones make each other laugh. 4. Shannon Napier and Lesley Lines were best friends who shared a common job, editing the school newspaper. 5. Whitney Peterson and Betsy Nance turn upside down for each other.

6. Eric Wood, Damon Moore, Steve Moan, and Seth Wolf not only are best friends, but football teammates. 7. Anna Blair and Megan Hughes display their friendship dressing as twins. 8. Carrie Turns and Stacey Adams have a laid back friendship. 9. Dave Nuhfer depends on his friend Scott Shelton's incredible strength to hold him up. 10. Vanessa Pete and Niki Carter are long-time best friends.

...double trouble

Many students did not realize that Corrie Cosway had a twin sister, Crystal. Crystal had spent her high school years studying ballet in Boston while obtaining her diploma from Greenwood. Corrie said that even though they were separated by distance, Crystal was her best friend.

Double trouble fit the class of 1989 as three sets of twins mirrored each other. Karen and Lisa Sherman, Andrea and Angela Calvert, and Corrie and Crystal Cosway. Three sets of twins in a class was a record for GCHS.

Karen and Lisa were born February 26, 1971; Lisa is two minutes older. As children they were dressed in identical clothes, just different colors. They have only been apart for a day in their lives. They claim to never have pulled any "twin" pranks, but admitted to pretending to be the other on the phone.

Throughout school, they have taken some of the same classes, which was an advantage according to Karen. They were able to help each other with homework. Lisa said she felt it was a disadvantage also because of grade comparisons.

Lisa has been active in swimming and going out with her friends. Karen likes reading, cross-stitching, and camping. Their favorite times together include being initiated into National Honor Society and cheering together in Wrestlerettes for six years. Graduating together was also a special moment.

Their goals are different. Karen wants to pass her CPA exam and open her own accounting firm. Lisa wants to be a pediatric nurse.

"Being a twin is unique and different," said Angie Calvert. Angie, three minutes younger than Andrea, is half of the tennis-playing Calvert twins. Born October 5, 1970, these fraternal twins have been apart for only a week when Andrea was playing in a tennis tournament. Their most memorable time was at a tennis tournament when they played in an under 12 bracket. On the court, Angie was a doubles player and Andrea was a state-runner-up singles player.

Pranks for the Calverts are no more than pretending to be each other on the phone. They agree Angie is the more outgoing one of the two. Although their mother dressed them alike as children, they have very different tastes today.

Andrea was involved on the newspaper and yearbook staff along with her tennis and booster club. Angie was in choir and Spanish Club in addition to Booster Club and tennis.

Angie plans to go to college and be either a nurse or a teacher. Andrea wants to pursue a professional tennis career. Both would like to have twins as children because they always have someone to talk to.

Freshmen Melody and Harmony Osborne hold the distinction of being the only underclass twins. Fraternal twins, they were born October 22, 1973; Melody is three minutes older.

Melody is in color guard and enjoys singing and dancing while Harmony likes to talk on the phone. When it comes to memorable moments, Harmony's favorite was spending time at King's Island with Melody. Picking on their little brother, Coby, is Melody's favorite time.

Both outgoing, they plan to get jobs after high school. Neither one wants twins. They said raising one child is tough enough.

...on the job

The magic age . . . sixteen . . . what does this mean? It is not just getting a driver's license, it also means taking on responsibility by finding a job. A job is not always fun, but it gives you independence and starts you off the right foot.

There are many reasons why teenagers work. They work to pay off or save up for car insurance, car payments, college funds and clothes. Some teenagers work too many hours and forget about school activities. This is not always their fault due to the fact many teens support themselves plus go to school. This is unfortunate because they will miss some fun times. But, all in all, having a job prepares us for the real work world.

...in cap and gown

The Class of 1989 passed through the halls of GCHS one last time on June 4, 1989. Gathering in the cafeteria, Seniors donned caps and gowns of green and gold, arranged tassles, and processed before a packed gymnasium of family and friends. It was a day of sadness mixed with anticipation. It was a day to stop and look around and realize this was the last time to be students at GCHS.

Class members were challenged by student speakers to take what they had learned in the last 12 years and put it to work in the future to make the world a better place. Valedictorian Deana Gregory and Salutatorian Kathy Henderson spoke of the joys of the last four years and the challenges ahead.

At the end of the ceremonies, as is tradition, the Class of 1989 tossed their caps into the air with a cheer from the audience. For one last time, class members stopped and looked around—then headed boldly into the future.

Student Life

Life as a student at Greenwood in 1989 was, well let's say, picture perfect. As seen in the picture to the left, students had fun in mass this year. The best example of this would be during the football season. As the team rolled through its amazing season, the fans were there every step of the way. Even as far as Evansville, hundreds of students made the trip to support the team and to have fun with friends.

Basketball season found fans and friends at pre-game meetings at Fast Patties and post-games celebrations at Burger King. With columns in The Weekly Splinter like "Fan of the Week", how could anyone not get involved. Many bleacher traditions were started, like the famous "breakdown".

Not only were the fans unforgettable, but the dances and special activities were also well attended.

Students at GCHS got involved in Student Life and had a good time in '89. After all, isn't that what high school is all about...getting involved?

...at the festivities

September 23 the Woodmen hosted the Avon Orioles for Homecoming. With the Woodmen on the march toward a championship season, the spirit through the week was high and the festivities well attended.

Preparation of the parade began the week before the Homecoming with each class building floats. The competition was keen with the sophomores prevailing in the annual competition. The Senior Class provided the most spirit throughout the week of dress-up days and Olympic competition.

Andrea Calvert, escorted by Carlos Diaz, was crowned Homecoming Queen.

The enthusiasm of the crowd contributed to the 34-21 victory over the Orioles.

...regining as royalty

David Hetherington and Jennifer Walters reigned as King and Queen for basketball Homecoming. The week was marked by spirit days and class decorations in the gymnasium. The Seniors were once again the Most Spirited class in the competitions. The gym was filled with ROWDY Woodmen fans cheering for a victory. The Woodmen anticipated foe, Indian Creek, and wasting no time scalping the Braves 78-67.

...on the Roof

"One Moment in Time" provided the theme for the 1989 Prom at the Indiana Roof Ballroom. A rainy April evening was replaced by the dazzling sky and stars of the ballroom as students dined and danced.

Students put on their best formal attire, black and white were the popular colors, dusted off their best manners, and enjoyed the party of the year. The well-attended affair added to the success of the planning of the Junior Class and sponsor Mrs. Janice McFerran.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the King and Queen and Prince and Princess. Damon Moore and Angela Calvert reigned as King and Queen. David Nuhfer and Kea Sloop were voted Prince and Princess.

The day after the Prom, students boarded buses for Kings' Island and a day of fun in the sun. Over 100 students took advantage of the bus transportation and the breakfast served by junior class parents. The day concluded a successful Prom—"One Moment in Time".

Activities

English team — 1st place State Academic competition.

Computer team — 1st IUPUI Computer contest.

Record number inducted into National Honor Society.

Everywhere you looked, students at Greenwood were involved in various activities. Some were for self-enrichment, like the language clubs, while others were of service to the school and community. Still many clubs worked to make the school a more spirited place, like the Booster Club and Cheerleaders. The activities program at GCHS included clubs of all types from academics to vocational.

Extra-curricular activities were a vital part of the year. Offering students a chance to explore new areas of education in an informal setting, the activities program allowed students to develop leadership skill through offices and responsibilities. They helped students build relationships with their peers and with adult sponsors. Much time was spent in exploring self through the activities program.

If there is one thing we can get from life, it is the chance to discover what we are good at, then have time to do it. Taking the time to look around, students at GCHS didn't miss the opportunities of friendship and growth offered with the clubs.

...Council

The 1988-89 Student Council was one of the most productive councils in many years. Many of these ideas came about under the leadership of Student Council President, Paul St. Pierre; Vice President, Jeff Raney; Secretary, Donna Griffin, and Treasurer, Tony DiCicco.

One of these new ideas was the Student Council school-to-school exchange. Greenwood's Student Council would visit another school and see how Student Council works in their school, and bring some of those ideas and use them at Greenwood. This year, Franklin Central invited Greenwood's council to their school, and Greenwood later reciprocated by inviting their council to Greenwood. This new program will continue for years to come.

Another program that Student Council is in charge of is the MORP. MORP is the opposite of the prom.

...Journalism

The Journalism II staff stopped and looked around and found change. Gone were the familiar Apple computers and the cut-and-paste production procedures. In their place were new IBM computers and desktop publishing. Staff members began from scratch learning the new systems.

Change was evident on the newspaper as a weekly edition was added. The Weekly Splinter appeared with the latest news and sports. The Timberlines continued to feature editorials, human interest stories, and columns once a month. Students experimented with setting type and designing pages on the desktop publishing system.

Changes in the yearbook were evident as students pursue this book. The Woodmen staff labored long hours into the summer to produce the book recording the history of 1988-89. With the use of desktop publishing, the staff changed to a paste-up yearbook and had total control of the finished product. It took a little longer in the first year, but allowed students to get the best of the year in the book.

The Timberlines staff included: Co-Editors, Shannon Napier and Lesley Lines; News Editors, Pam Penney and Leslie Kearney; Sports Editor, Keyne Monson.

...WASC

WASC (Wharton's Advanced Speech Class) undertook a creative project which combined their speech skills with visuals to produce an orientation video tape. Used for the first time with incoming freshmen in 1989, the tape features GCHS—its activities, its personalities, its academics, and its policies. Told through narration and music, the tape took the entire semester to organize, shoot, and script. During the summer, Ms. Carol Wharton took the rough tapes into the editing studio and came out with the final 48 minute product.

This experience combined all phases of the communication arts and provided a novel introduction to GCHS for freshmen and transfer students. The tape will be edited every other year to keep it current with changes in policies and activities.

WASC also provided the Friday morning radio program which brought announcements and features to students. With speech students rotating writing and announcing jobs, the students gained an experience in broadcasting.

Not all was unusual for WASC as students also were required to make panel presentations and speeches.

...Wrestlerettes

Without the Wrestlerettes, the wrestling program would lack the spark and enthusiasm it has. These dedicated girls provide the booster spirit behind the meets. Assigned specific wrestlers, the Wrestlerettes make sure their guy is recognized with spirit banners, signs, and goodies for his "sweet tooth" during the season.

When it comes to the matches, the Wrestlerettes handle the noise-making.

Sitting together as a cheering section, they lead the fans in cheers and general "rowdiness". Win or lose, the Wrestlerettes let these sportsmen know their hard work is appreciated. Many dark, early mornings, the Wrestlerettes sleepily board the bus for an away meet or tourney. It is an activity taking great dedication to the sport and to the school. With little recognition, these girls perform a service as they represent GCHS's spirit.

...NHS

National Honor Society members are chosen on the basis of scholarship, character, service, and leadership in the school and community. Each fall, seniors are notified of their scholastic eligibility of a 3.0 GPA. After completing an application, the seniors are rated on character and leadership qualities by the faculty and are given points for service through their activities. Those qualified are inducted in October.

As a project, the NHS members conducted Teacher Appreciation Week, acting as a secret pal for teachers.

...Academic Team

The English team of Chris Hyman, Kathy Henderson, and Tish Shelton placed first in the State Academic meet. The Academic Team, coached by Mrs. Cheryl Talbott, consists of teams in Social Studies, Math, English, the Fine Arts, Science, and all around competition. Having done well in the past, the GCHS team brought home the first State title for GCHS. Team members spend many hours drilling and studying materials selected for the meets. They compete several times in the spring with the big meet being the State. Qualifying team scores are ranked and only the highest are allowed in the finals.

...Computer Team

...Key Club

Key Club is a service organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The members perform various tasks to help the school and community. One project is the Annual Canned Food Drive which provides food for needy Greenwood families at Christmas. Other projects include cleaning the football field after games and assisting with Kiwanis Club projects in the community.

...I-Arts

Industrial Arts Club members made the lucky horseshoe for the Booster Club and cheerleaders to use at games. Members are also involved in discovering more about industrial trades through field trip and discussions at meetings. The focus of the organization is to enhance the abilities of students interested in some career in industry—be that working with woods, metals, power mechanics, tools, and equipment. Mr. John Hallett is the sponsor of the club.

...French Club

French Club expands the cultural awareness of students enrolled in French classes. The club is an opportunity for students to learn more about France and French speaking countries. Every other year the club is part of a European trip sponsored by Mrs. Susan Quebe and Mrs. Kathy Atkinson.

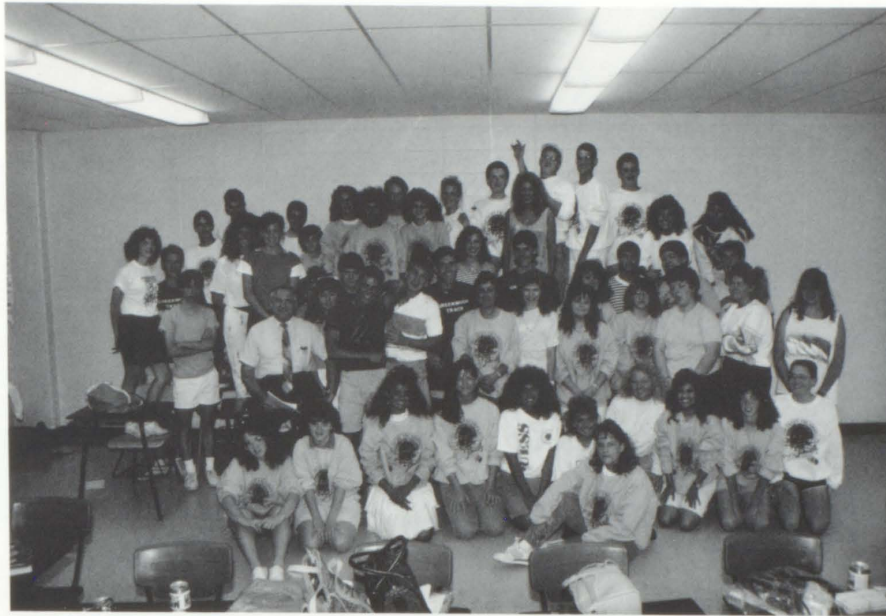

The French Club sponsors French Week when members cannot speak in English to other students. The winner of the contest is honored at the club banquet, usually held at a French restaurant where they can sample the typical cuisine of France, including escargo (snails). The informal atmosphere allows for cultural growth and enrichment.

...Booster Club

Booster Club is at the heart of GCHS spirit. Without the Booster Club there would be no signs in the halls boasting of team spirit. There would be no homecoming celebrations or recognition of outstanding student athletes throughout the year. Without the Booster Club, the cheerleaders would be on their own to get the fans ROWDY. But thanks to the hard work and dedication of the members, the Booster Club helps see to the success of the homecomings, after-game dances, and hall decorating contests. On game days, they sponsor the wearing of Green-and-Gold as a sign of team spirit. Often the cheerleaders get most of the credit for these activities, but it is with the help of the Booster Club that GCHS spirits continue to rise.

...Thespians

Thespians are involved in play productions—everything from lights, sets, costumes, sound, programs, tickets, and acting. Thespians are dedicated theatre students who produce the fall play and the spring revue. A learning experience, members get a chance to learn more about the theatre and theatre operations from the informal club meetings. Sponsored by Ms. Janelle Runge, the Thespians enjoy field trips to local theatres and productions of their own.

...leading the cheers

The 1988-89 Varsity cheerleading season was definitely a success. The squad started in the summer and placed 2nd at Johnson, 8th at State, and 1st and most spirited at Marion County Fair. The girls attended cheerleading camp at Ball State University receiving all blue ribbons and they were voted one of the most spirited squads.

The varsity cheerleaders are responsible for all pep sessions, decorations, announcements, supporting the teams, and keeping the winning spirit.

Each year, the Reserve and Freshmen squads learn the fundamentals of cheerleading, and help raise spirit at games. The 1988-89 Reserve and Freshmen cheerleaders did an outstanding job doing both. The Reserve placed 1st at Johnson, 2nd at Marion, and 2nd at the Indiana State Fair. Both the Reserve and Freshmen had top honors and awards at Ball State cheerleading camp.

We Came.

We Saw.

We Conquered.

Such could be the motto for the better part of the 1989 athletic year. The Woodmen held their own on the athletic fields all year long, advancing to the Sectional final in each of the big three sports—football, basketball, and baseball. The girls' team also had their share of individual achievements.

Jennifer Walters, Andrea Calvert, and Amy Burton each achieved individual honors. Jenny won the County Cross Country meet and never lost in a dual meet. When track season came, she again set records and went to the Regional.

Andrea continued her winning way on the tennis court, losing only two matches all season. She advanced to the Regionals in the singles competition before falling to Park Tudor's Allison Turner.

Amy Burton leaped her way into the school record books by advancing to the State meet in the long jump. She finished 11th in the State.

The boys saw the most successful season in the history of Greenwood. The 1989 football team claimed the Mid-State title for the third consecutive year, went undefeated in regular season play, won the Sectional and Regional titles, and advanced to the Class 4A final-four before falling to a speedy Franklin Central team.

The 1989 tennis team won its ninth consecutive Mid-State title.

The boys' cross country team advanced to the Regionals.

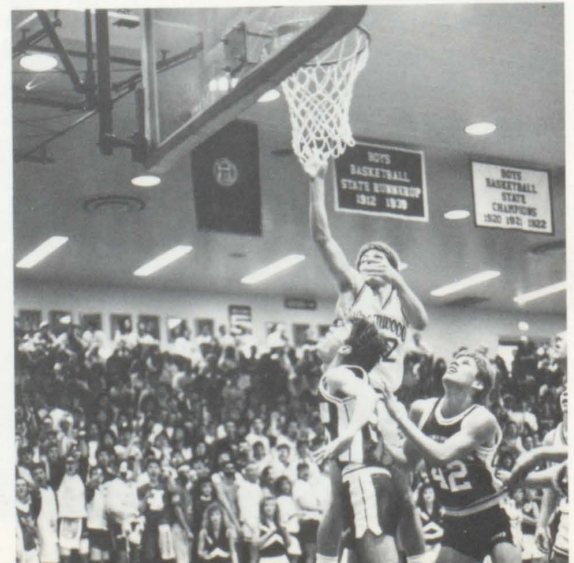

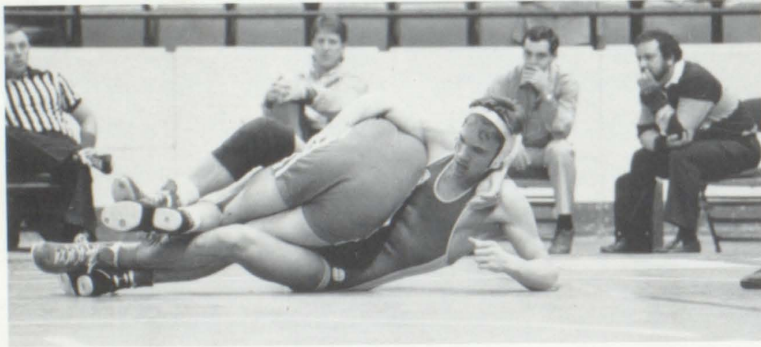

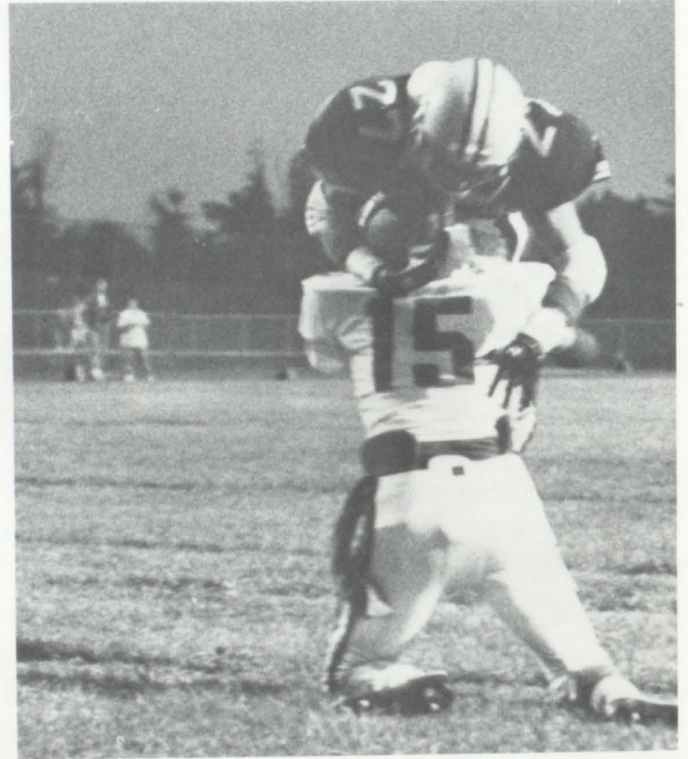

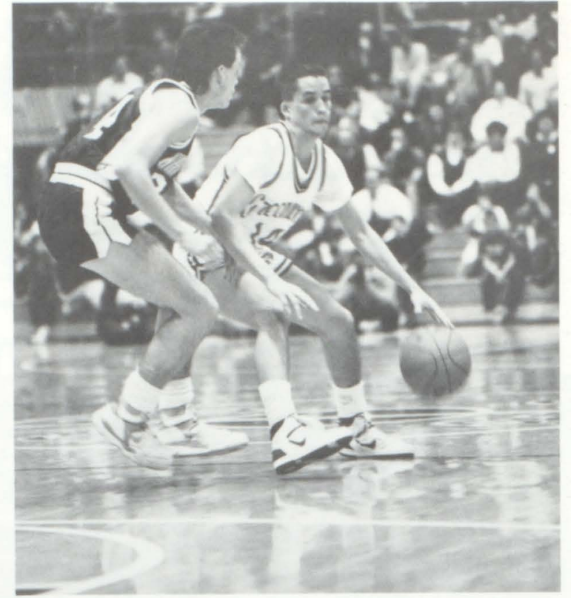

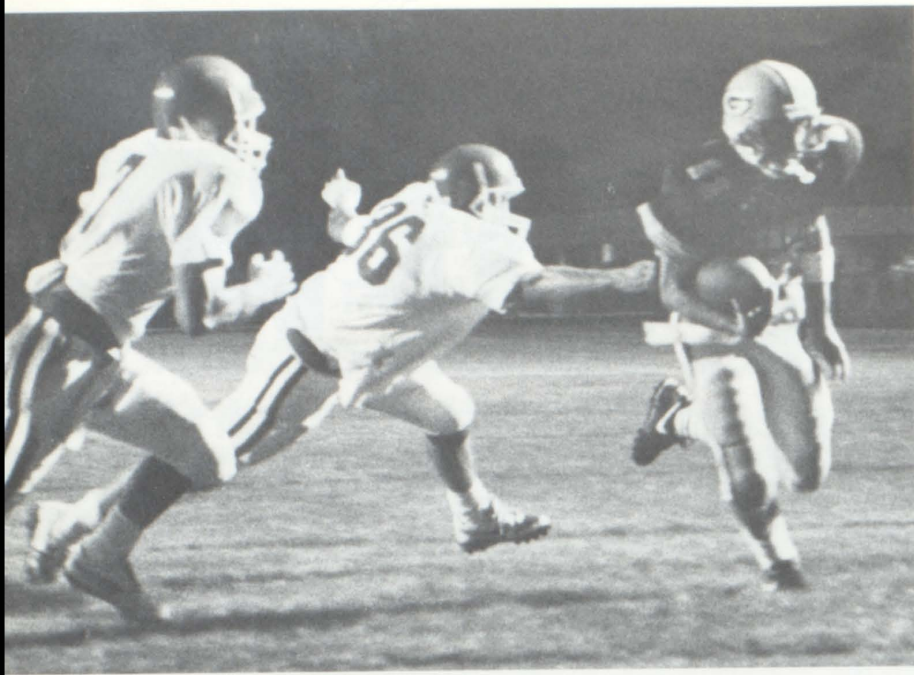

In Coach Gary Vandergriff's final season as head basketball coach, the team lost in the Sectional finals to a spirited Franklin team.

The track team won its third straight County and Mid-State title, placed third in the Sectionals, fifth in Regionals, and sent four members to the State track meet. David Nuhfer placed sixth in the 800 and won one point for the Woodmen, putting them 20th in the State.

The 1989 athletic season was a successful one for teams and individuals.

...On the road to the Final Four

The varsity football team had a storybook season in 1988, losing only to Franklin Central in a heartbreaking Semi-State battle. The Woodmen's 12-1 record is the best in County and school history. It includes an undefeated regular season, the first in school history, a third straight Mid-State conference title, and the school's first ever Sectional and Regional titles. The team was ranked 7th A.P. and 11th U.P.I. in the final polls taken at the end of the regular season.

The Woodmen proved to be better than those rankings in the playoffs, though. They upset 9th ranked Rushville at Rushville, beat 11th ranked East Central at Brookville, and then upset 6th ranked Seymour at home for the Sectional Championship.

The team had many outstanding performances during the 1988 campaign. The offense was lead by a trio of seniors, Todd Robbins, Bill Hotopp, and Brad Reed. Todd Robbins passed for 915 yards on 99 attempts and threw 6 touchdown passes. Bill Hotopp led the county in rushing by gaining 1,000 yards on 210 carries. He also rushed for 13 touchdowns. Brad Reed had a stellar season rushing for 411 yards on 37 carries, catching 38 passes for 897 yards and 6 touchdowns, and he returned four kicks for scores.

The defense was outstanding throughout the season, allowing only 112 points all year long, with only 28 of those coming in the playoffs. James Hogan and Mike Thomas led the team in tackles. Kris Sawyer and James Hogan led in sacks, and Brad Reed and Mike Thomas had 9 and 4 interceptions each. Brad returned one of those interceptions 55 yards for the clinching score in the Sectional Championship.

The kicking game was also excellent during the season, with Shawn Springer leading the way. Shawn set school and county records for most season and career field goals. His punting was also excellent.

The players received many awards for their performances during the year. Brad Reed was named Most Valuable Player and was the Rick Machledt Mental Attitude winner. Steve Moan was the winner of the Mike Neeley Most Valuable Lineman award. Brad was also named to the AP 1st team All-State and Steve was named to the UPI and AP 1st team All-State. Brad and Mike Thomas received spots on the 1st team Academic All-State team. Eight Woodmen were named the All-Conference team.

Coach Scotten was also honored by being named as a coach for the South in the Indiana North-South All-Star game.

The reserve football team led by coaches Mike Loudermilk and John Williams finished with an impressive 6-2 record, suffering losses from Plainfield and Cathedral. The key to the team was defensive unity and aggressiveness. The defense was led by the solid play of linebackers Dwight Bird, Garrett Syra, and Phil Meyers.

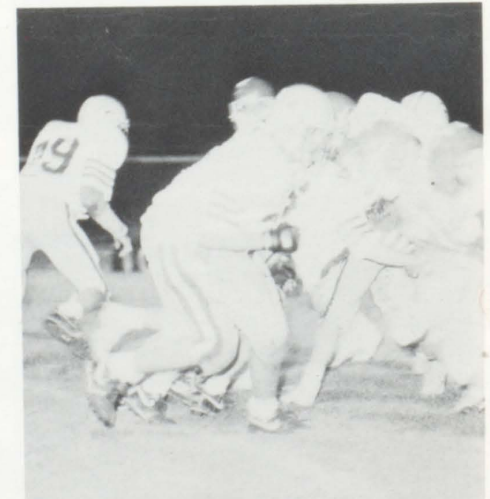

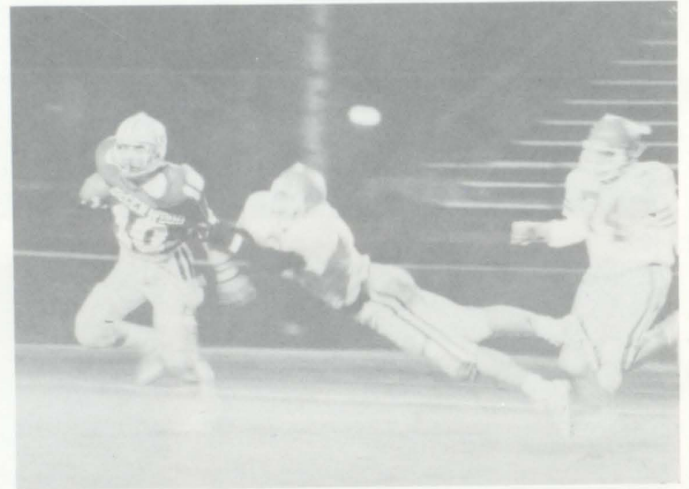

Good special teams play, led by the kicking of Jason Jarboe, and punting of David Johnson, also helped contribute to the Woodmen efforts.

Offensively, the reserves controlled the ball on the ground as running backs Danny McMannis, Matt Tuttle David Johnson, and Jason Jarboe carried most of the load.

Quarterback Jason Grable added an offensive boost for the Woodmen connecting with tight end Aaron Stidham. Slot back Edwin Brown gave another dimension to the offense with his speed on reverse plays.

The freshman football team had a season full of ups and downs as they continuously split wins and losses. The Woodmen were led by the strong running of Chad McIntyre and Corey Zavela. B.J. Davis was the quarterback for the 4-4 Woodmen.

Lawrence Craigie was the man in charge for the freshmen as he coached them to several exciting victories. He was proud of his young team and thought that they improved substantially throughout the season.

Even though the Woodmen were 4-4, their record was deceiving as they lost several close contests by only a few points. Their team defense was a key to their success as they held their opponents in check.

Rod Hodges and Jamey Brown also provided strong performances for the Woodmen. Brown contributed to both the offense and defense.

...bumping, setting, spiking

The varsity volleyball team began a promising season with a lot of individual talent. Although they played hard and took most matches to three games, they lacked the ability to work together as a team in order to win those matches. Their season ended with a record of 5-13.

Fortunately, they did learn a lot from this year's performances and gained some much needed experience.

Receiving awards for this year's season were: serving - Becky Miller; receiving - Shawn Groves; hitting - Niki Hunt, and setting - Marla Hershberger. Winning the MVP award was Niki Hunt while being named to the Mid-State All Conference team was Deana Gregory.

...over the net

Greenwood's boys' tennis team felt the pressure of an ever improving County and Mid-State schedule this year. Along with a tough conference, Greenwood battled six state-ranked teams including: Southport, Perry Meridian, and Columbus North at third, fourth, and fifth in the state respectively.

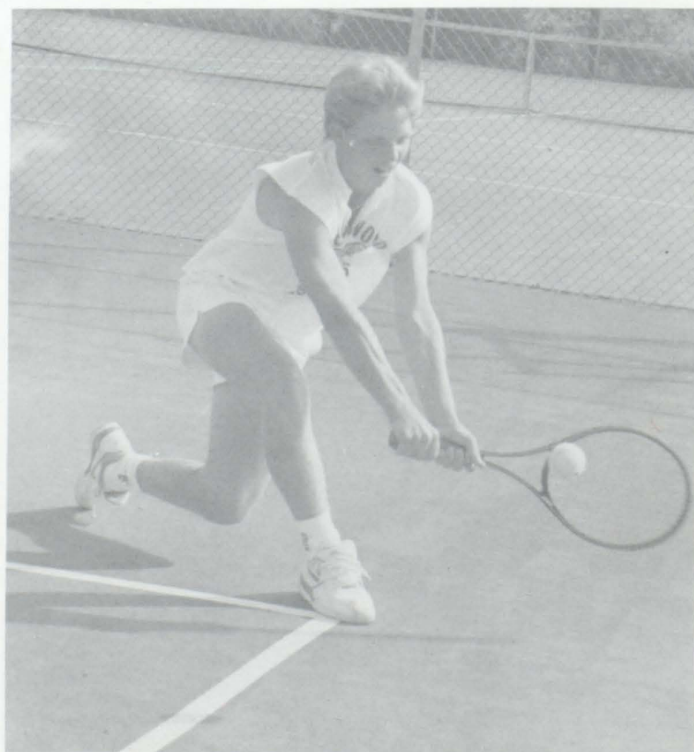

Greenwood went into the Mid-State tourney hoping to win its ninth consecutive crown. The Woodmen netters came out of the talent filled tournament with a thin one point advantage securing the title. Individually the Woodmen held down four of the five number one seeds at the beginning, but managed to bring home just two blue ribbons. Greenwood narrowly missed two other first place finishes by grabbing runner-up honors. Jason McLerran won at the number three singles position, while Adam Nuhfer and Andy Lytle platooned with Jason Slusser to win at the number two doubles position. Scott Shelton placed second at the number one singles position, and co-captains Eric Habig and Bob Wilson teamed up to place second at the number one doubles position.

Coach Gerry Steinhagen was relatively pleased with the teams' effort, but felt their overall record and performance in the county tourney should have been better. At the post season banquet County Player of the Year, Scott Shelton received Most Valuable Player, Most Wins, and Mental Attitude Honors. Sophomore Jason McLerran was voted Most Improved.

The Boys Cross Country Team had a very successful season even though they were without one of their top runners, Andy Dalton, who was out due to a stress fracture.

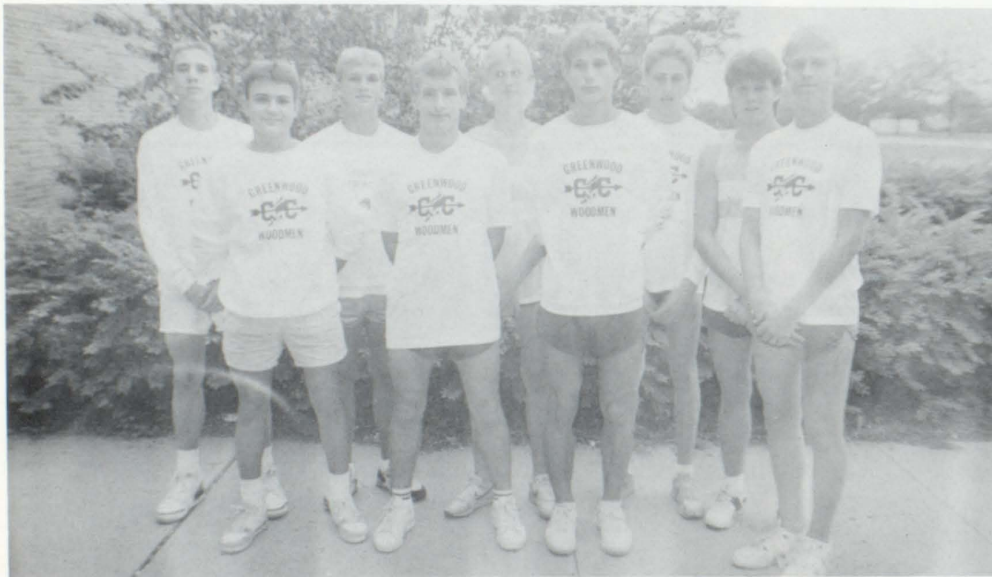

The boys placed 3rd in the county meet and second in the Mid-State. They also placed 5th in the Sectionals and qualified for Regionals for the 3rd year in a row. The highlight of the season had to be the Whiteland Invitational. David Nuhfer was the individual winner, and the Greenwood boys took home their first 1st place trophy ever.

Team leadership was provided by the three seniors, Kurt Thomas, Brian Lyles, and Mark Campbell. Junior, David Nuhfer led the team. His best time of the season was 16:40. He placed 2nd in both the county and mid-state meets. David won the Whiteland Invitational, and he placed 13th in the regionals.

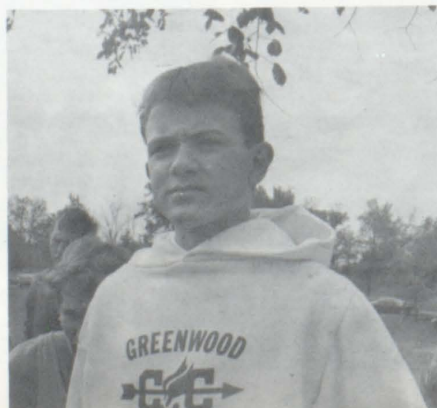

Besides competing in the Whiteland Invitational, the boys also competed in three other invitationals: the Rushville Invitational, Decatur Central Invitational, and the Franklin Central Invitational.

David Nuhfer was named the MVP of the cross country team, and Matt Davidson was named the most improved. Andy Dalton, David Nuhfer, Brian Lyles, and Kurt Thomas were also named to the 500 mile club. This is an award given to those people who run 500 miles combined during the summer and the season.

Next year's Cross-Country team looks to be very promising. Two of this year's top runners, Andy Dalton and David Nuhfer, will be returning, but the team will probably lack depth.

...Brinking on success

The 1988 Greenwood varsity basketball team sported alot of experience and quickness, but failed to win the close games against some tough opponents such as Bloomington North, Center Grove, and Franklin Central. In his final coaching season, Coach Gary Vandergriff guided the Woodmen to an 8-14 record, and runners-up in the Franklin boys basketball sectional.

The Woodmen were led by four outstanding seniors in David Foley, Brad Reed, Shawn Springer, and Jeff Wilson. These four seniors provided leadership to an up-and-coming supporting cast. Wilson was voted the teams most valuable player, while junior Anthony Candlish led the team in scoring, at 13.5 points per game. 6-4 David Foley led Greenwood in rebounding, pulling in eight boards a game. Sophomores Scott Beasley and Jason Baker contributed to the starting lineup on occasion, and juniors David Nuhfer and John Beville, and sophomore Greg Stilley rounded out a very aggressive and productive bench. Greenwood's future basketball hopes will rest with second team all-county performer Anthony Candlish and a young, but experienced bench.

The reserve basketball team had a season full of excitement. Led by Mike Gillock, Jason Baker, and Lance Pringle, the reserves finished with an impressive 14-6 record. Also, splitting time with the varsity were Scott Beasley and Greg Stilley. Matt Rimer was also an inspiration to the team as he battled an injury throughout the season

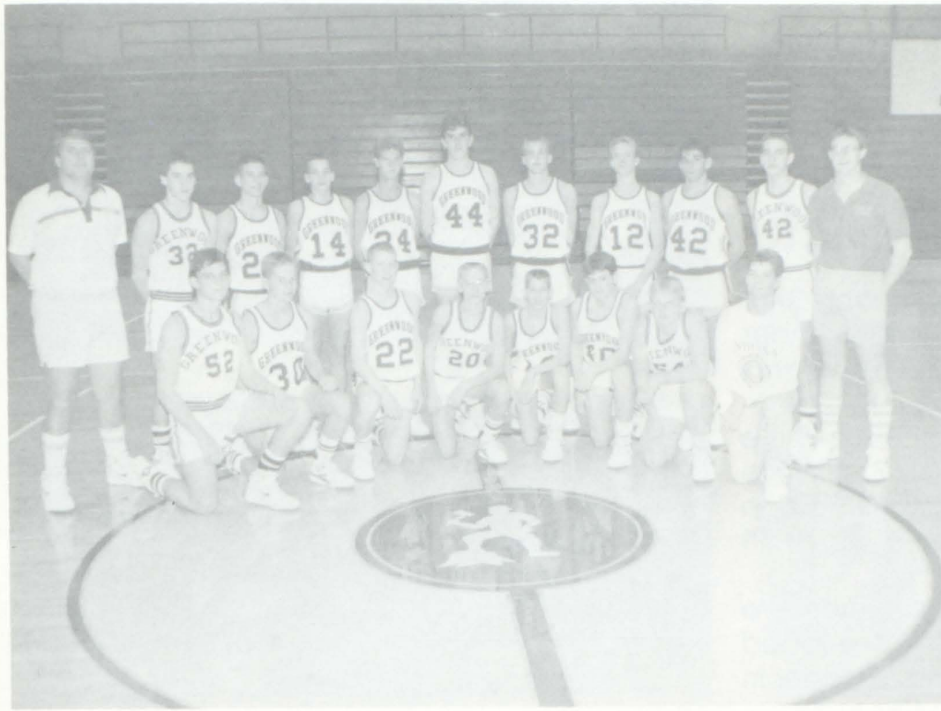

The reserves were coached by new first year coach Joe Farley. He thinks this group of young men has a lot of potential and looks forward to watching them in the future.

The freshmen basketball team finished their season with an even 9-9 record. The B team finished with an impressive 7-4 record while they continued to improve. The Woodmen were led by the outstanding play of Ryan Walters, and Steve Sawa. Chad McIntyre also played a contributing role after he returned from an injury.

Although the freshmen finished with a weaker record than they hoped for, they made great strides throughout the season. Their relentless aggressiveness on defense was just one of their many strong points.

Under the leadership of new head coach Chris Campbell, the varsity wrestling team fell under some hard times with a 7-9 record. The seniors seemed to dominate the team with R.H. Campbell having the most takedowns at 45 and the most reversals at 21. The most falls, 17, and the most near falls, 26, were scored by Bill Hotopp while Alan Muia recorded the fastest fall at 15 seconds.

Although the seniors led the team, there were four freshmen who gained some much needed varsity experience and look to return stronger in the coming years.

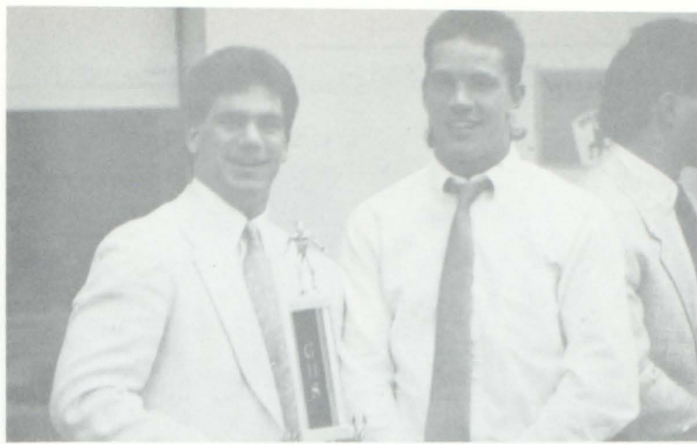

The team was unable to fair well this year in tournaments, but Coach Campbell hopes to turn that around next year.

The girls basketball team had a year full of learning experiences with their new coach, Mr. Keaney Sloop. Accepting all the changes in the transaction between the coaches, the girls seemed to take it in stride. They ended up with a 5-14 record hoping to improve with another year of practice.

This year Carol Hill tied the school record by totaling 32 points in the last game of the season. Other awards Carol received were: Co-MVP, All Conference Team, and Leading Scorer. Joanne Losche was the other Co-MVP along with assists and defense. Julie Eck earned the Mental Attitude Award, Kea Sloop had the highest free throw percentage, while Brandi Cottingham pulled down the most rebounds. The girls look forward to another year with the "Mean Green", Mr. Sloop.

...crossing home plate

The varsity baseball team suffered through a disappointing season and finished with a 6-15 record. The reason for this was the lack of team unity. The Woodmen had 12 seniors on their regular 15 man roster, but they failed to come together and play as a team. From the mound, Kyle Corbin was the team's most effective pitcher, while Bruce West, Andy Lytle, and Phil Myers also offered support. Kyle Sloop did a superb job of handling the challenging chore of coming in to pitch in the late innings. Chris Holt was constantly throwing runners out as he was responsible for the catching duties all year. Second baseman Carlos Diaz and shortstop Scott Beasley combined their talent in the field and at the plate by hitting in the number 1 and 2 spots in the lineup.

The freshmen had a disappointing season with 4-6 record. First-year coach, Larry Craigie, worked with the team to develop the skills needed to play high school baseball through the season.

The team started with big wins over Mooresville (11-1) and Franklin (15-10), then lost to Center Grove (0-8) and Franklin (5-7). With bats swinging the Woodmen looked like they would come on strong as they raised their record to 4-2 with wins over Whiteland (10-4) and Roncalli (2-0). But that was the end of the wins as the Woodmen scored only six runs to their opponents 33 runs in the last four games.

The girls' varsity tennis team had a good year since it was a rebuilding year. Not only were there new players in the line up, but there was a new coach. This year the girls were coached by Miss Barbara Otte. She helped the girls out greatly by giving tips to the players and filling in spots to play. Teaching physical education helped because of her knowledge of tennis.

The lineup for the varsity had a different look. Andrea Calvert played #1 singles finishing This year the other singles players were young, so they had a great experience playing in those positions. Sophomore DeMaris Henderson played #2 singles finishing 1-8. Freshman star Wendy Goeckel finished 1-9.

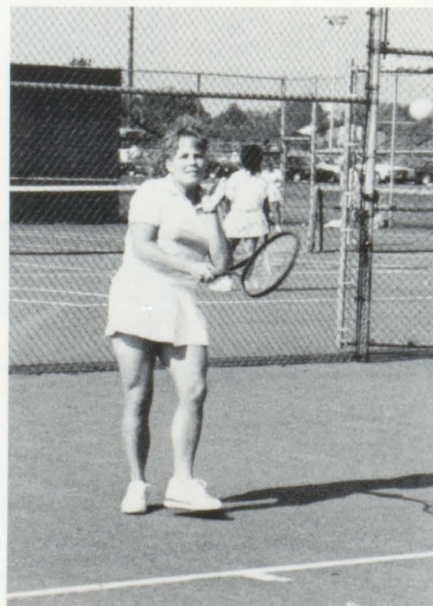

The doubles teams had improved greatly throughout the season. At #1 doubles was the combination of senior Angie Calvert and junior Niki Hunt. This doubles team played well with each other, finishing with a record of 4-6. At #2 doubles, senior power came through again with Donna Griffin and Vanessa Pete. They finished with a 4-9 record. One highlight of their season was finishing 4th in the Mid-State Conference Tournament.

The reserve softball team struggled to a 4-7 season despite the outstanding pitching of Lisa Bunton. When the team won, the margin of victory was significant. But so were the losses, as the Woodmen had only one close loss, 5-6, against Warren Central.

The season looked sound as the girls downed Scecina, 17-11, Brown County, 17-7, and Beech Grove, 15-7. Then the Woodmen met Center Grove, Perry Meridian, Southport, and Franklin Central recording losses. Although the season was not what was anticipated, the team did develop individually.

The 1989 Boys' Track Team had one of the best seasons in track history, capturing their third straight Johnson County and Mid State Conference championships. The team was led by a talented group of seniors who did what it would take to win.

The team finished the season with a 9-3 dual meet record, a third place in the Sectional, and a fifth place finish in the Regional. These accomplishments were directly related to the many outstanding individuals on the team.

Dave Hetherington won the County in both the hurdle races and was runner-up in Conference meet. Dave Nufher was the champion of the 800 in both meets. Steve Moan won the shot and the discus in both meets, and Shawn Springer jumped his way to two firsts in the high jump. Brad Reed, Mike Gillock, Nufher, and Hetherington also won the 1600 meter relay in the Conference meet and got second in the county. Mike Thomas provided support in the 100, Bill Hotopp in the 110 highs, and Tim Pinckert helped with strong performances in the long jump and the 200. They, along with Reed, composed the second and third place 400 meter relay team.

In the Sectional, Dave Nufher emerged as the champion in the 800 meter, while Dave Hetherington got second in both the 110 hurdles and 300 low hurdles. Steve Moan captured second and third in the shot and discus, and Shawn Springer won the high jump. Brad Reed placed fourth in 300 lows, as did Bill Hotopp in the 110 highs. The 400 meter relay team of Thomas, Reed, Hotopp, and Pinckert placed fourth and so did the 1600 meter relay team of Reed, Hetherington, Gillock, and Nufher. These individuals advanced to the Bloomington Regional.

In the Regional, Dave Hetherington punched his ticket to the state meet by winning the 300 lows and placing third in the 110 highs. Dave Nufher advanced by placing fourth in the 800, and Shawn Springer also advanced by placing fourth in the high jump.

At the State meet, Dave Nufher set a new school record of 1:55.4 seconds in the 800 meter run and placed 6th overall. Dave Hetherington and Shawn Springer both performed well, but failed to place.

At the awards banquet, Mike Thomas was the recipient of the Mental Attitude Award, Steve Moan received Most Valuable Field Eventer, and Dave Hetherington and Dave Nuhfer shared the Most Valuable Runner Award.

...stretching at the finish

The 1989 girls track team completed their most successful season in a long time. The girls came away with their first winning season in three years, finishing with 13 wins and 11 losses. They also captured the Whiteland Invitational. This year a record 8 girls qualified for sectionals and 3 girls qualified for regionals.

Julie Lasseris made her first regional appearance by finishing fourth in the sectional in the 100 meter hurdles. She also qualified for the sectional in the 300 meter hurdles, but did not advance to the regional.

Jenny Walters finished out her high school career by winning the county and the conference in the 1600 and 800 meter runs. She placed second in the sectionals and 6th in the regionals. Jenny also set a new school record in the 3200 meter run.

Sophomore Amy Burton had a very successful season. She was sectional champion in the long jump, and she placed 4th in the regional which advanced her to the state meet. She also qualified for the regionals in the 300 meter hurdles. Amy was county and conference champion in the 300 meter hurdles, and led the team in total points scored.

...teeing off

An experienced varsity golf team completed a very competitive year with a record of 7-6. Colin Wiggins, Bob Wilson, Mike Asher, and two-year number one player, Greg Harris, provided leadership for an up-and-coming team. Greg advanced from the Sectional to the Regionals this year and was named the Medalist Award winner for the team. Colin Wiggins won the Putting Award. Gordon Meier and Ryan Watt rounded out the varsity team.

The team placed fourth in the Mid-State and seventh out of 11 in the Crawfordsville Invitational. In the regular season the team sported wins over Avon, Mooresville, and Beech Grove. Gordon Meier and Ryan Watt will be the nucleus for the future on the links.

The 1988 Marching Woodmen capped off yet another successful season as they finished second in the state championship after winning most of their contests along the way. There was tremendous pressure on the band going into the season as they were attempting to defend their two-time State Championship.

"The band performed very well this year and I'm not at all dissatisfied with their performance," comments band director Jon Sutton. "The band had a good work ethic and tried real hard to do what we requested of them. This was evident in the results that they received during the year. We tried to do innovative maneuvers through both a music and drill viewpoint and the band did a good job pulling them off."

The season started early for Greenwood with their summer practices in June and August, where they learned music fundamentals and got a better understanding of their music. After that came a string of Invitational contests in which Greenwood placed well in each. Their first contest was on September 17 at the Lawrence Central Invitational, which they won along with the music, general effect, marching, auxiliary, and percussion caption awards. Later that night at the Carmel Invitational, the Marching Woodmen were first again, also winning the music, marching, auxiliary, and percussion caption awards. A week later on September 24, Greenwood competed at the Center Grove Invitational where they placed third, behind Centerville and Lawrence North. They also won the percussion and auxiliary caption awards.

October 8 was district competition at Southport High School. This was the first step in returning to the state finals and Greenwood placed first again. After district, they traveled to Cincinnati where they marched in exhibition that night. Regionals came a week later at Columbus East High School, where only the top five bands out of both regions advance to the finals. The Marching Woodmen won this too, for the third year in a row. On October 22, Greenwood took a break from state competition and traveled to Wabash College, where they won the North Montgomery Invitational along with the marching, auxiliary, and general effect caption awards. Finally, on October 29, the state finals came. Greenwood marched one of their best shows of the year but fell short of winning their third straight title by .2 of a point, placing second in the State of Indiana for Class B.

It is frightening to think that a family like the Hollanders might represent the U.S. behind the Iron Curtain. It is equally frightening that a man like Axel Magee might be left in charge of the U.S. Embassy. Both horrors came to pass in the play, "Don't Drink The Water", by Woody Allen.

The play describes the follies of the "typical" American family caught within a communist country while on vacation. Accused of being spies, the Hollanders must find a way out of the country

1. Father Drobney (James Nowacki) delivers a message on the two of spades. 2. Axel Magee dismantles the bomb as Mr. Hollander watches. 3. Axel (Matt Meador) is stunned by the latest development in the spy case. 4. Ms. Kilroy (Kim Morey) attempts to keep things running despite her injury. 5. Walter Hollander (Stephen Hunt) explains how he'll use a gun in the escape plot. 6. Marion Hollander (Deidre Bartko) makes herself at home in the Embassy. 7. Susan Hollander (Tanessa Caldwell) copes with her circumstance. 8. Magee goes over the escape plan once more. 9. Chef (Heather Skirvin) nags about the cooking conditions. 10. The cast and crew celebrate a successful performance. 11. Krojack (Scott Stiles) demands Axel hand over the spies. 12. Father Drobney hides on the sofa. 13. Sticks and stones could not break Ms. Kilroy's bones, but Mr. Hollander's bad aim brought her down. 14. Caught in the chase are Krojack and Father Drobney. 15. # ...at Christmas<sup>1</sup>

In merry old England in Medieval times, the Lords and Ladies gathered to celebrate the Christmas Season with a feast. Seated in the great stone hall, the guests were served the traditional roast pig and figgy pudding with all the trimmings to toast the beginning of the holiday season. Following dinner, the guests were encouraged to join in song and merriment along with the Lord of the castle and his Lady.

The tradition of these days has become known as the Madrigal Dinner, produced by the choral music department in December. Featuring food prepared by the Home Economics classes, the Concert Choir assembled to lead the guests through the traditional songs and festivities of the Madrigal. The evening was complete with flute and piano music, the herald trumpets, the jester and his jokes, the beggars with sad stories, and skits and songs. The conclusion of the evening was the candlelight recessional to "Silent Night" sung by the guests in the hall.

"You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" was a collection of stories in the lives of America's favorite children (sorry Snoopy — and America's favorite dog). The musical brought touching moments to all age groups with scenarios that everyone could relate to. The characters were quite similar to the comic strip: Charlie had a complex; Schroeder played the keys diligently; Linus had his fond attachment for his blanket and thumb; and Lucy...well Lucy was just a grouch. The only differences were that Snoopy stood upright, and Patty actually looked like a girl.

...making music

As the marching season for the band ends, so commences a new concert season. The concert season for the band is just as important as the marching season, for not only do they continue to practice, but learn to understand and portray the meaning of the music. Students also start to develop individual styles of playing. The concert season is a very important part of the following marching season also because everything they learn will be passed on to the next year's marching band.

There are two concert bands, the Wind Ensemble, directed by Mr. Sutton, and the Symphonic Band, directed by Mr. Barmore. The Wind Ensemble consists primarily of the more experienced students, playing difficult pieces. The Symphonic Band consists mainly of the newcomers and plays challenging pieces. In the Fall, both bands unite to form the Greenwood Marching Band.

After the marching band competition ends, both our bands also compete in concert band contests. Each year they play music before a panel of judges and then must 'sight-read' piece, which is playing an unknown piece for the first time. Both those scores are combined and the band with the highest score wins.

There are also two other bands, the jazz band and the pep band, both directed by Mr. Barmore. The jazz band meets in school before both concert bands. Anyone in the school who can play an instrument may audition for it. The jazz band also competes in the statewide jazz band competition.

The pep band, or basketball band, plays at all the home basketball games. The band consists of volunteers from both concert bands. The band meets once every week to rehearse their music, which is usually more upbeat and jazzy than the concert music.

The bands have many performances here at the school in the auditorium. Coming up soon, the music department will be putting on a Christmas concert. Both the bands and the choir will be performing. One number will feature both the bands and the choir together.

...entertaining with music

The air was filled with beautiful voices every time the choirs began performing. The three groups, Concert Choir, Advanced Girls' Chorus, and Beginning Girls' Chorus, entertained with everything from popular tunes to classical music. They added to the rhythm with choreography and speciality numbers featuring soloists.

The choirs, under the direction of Mrs. Rebecca Davis, competed in State contest, winning first division ratings. The Concert Choir finished in the top 16 of the State, a first time for such an accomplishment.

...at the Columns with Jazz

"Jazz at the Columns" featured the speciality performing groups of the choral and instrumental music departments. The Jazz Band, under the direction of Mr. Matt Barmore, and the Singasations, under the direction of Mrs. Rebecca Davis, provided the music while patrons enjoyed dessert. The evening featured the groups and soloists with a couple of numbers together.

Another speciality group was the combo which played for the musical "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown". Again led by Mr. Barmore, the combo played the familiar Charlie Brown tunes from the pit.

Academics at Greenwood were more than just the 3 R's from the children's nursery rhyme. Academics at Greenwood prepared students to take on the challenges of the working world armed with the basic skills in a variety of fields. From computer programming and applications classes to foreign literature and English to child development, academics broaden its wings and soared to new heights. GCHS students could go as far in an academic discipline as they wished. All it took was some initiative and determination to succeed.

The Academic English team brought home a first place in the State meet. Tish Shelton, Kathy Henderson, and Chris Hyman were the winning team.

Jeff Raney, Doug Boyd, Mischa Kachler, Brian Mayo, Ryan Smith, and David Marquam were outstanding in math competitions. Greenwood won the Johnson County Math meet and the IUPUI Computer meet.

Academics was the core of what GCHS was about. When we stopped to look around, we found empty hallways and students in classes. Passing by each doorway, the sounds of learning in all its forms was heard. From class recitations to teacher lectures to saws buzzing through wood, education was heard. We even smelled education occasionally when the chemistry classes took to the lab, and, more pleasantly, when the foods classes baked cookies or made lunch for the faculty. Outside the windows we witnessed the physics classes' catapult challenge, the math classes' aerodynamic paper airplane contest, and the biology students' hunt for insects. Throughout the day, education took place in many ways and in many places. As man reaches new goals in technology year after year, so does Greenwood High School in the way of academics. GCHS was striving to provide more than the 3 R's.

...Language

Language classes included not only English, but also French and Spanish as students studied the 'ins' and 'outs' of grammatical structures and looked for the author's purpose in literature.

Students in lit classes gained a new perspective on literature of America as well as the world. Students in Literature and Art studied the connection between history, literature, art, and music of various periods in history.

The practicality of English was focused on in writing classes. Whether entering a profession after high school, or going on to higher education, English is one subject which will be used daily. Students learned to write everything from sentences to paragraphs to business letters and applications for jobs.

1. Eager English students concentrate on homework. 2. Using the computer lab for writing experiences was part of the journalism class. 3. The library was also an important place to find English students. 4. Studying English often meant using 'big' reference books. 5. Advanced speech students worked to create WASC and an orientation video. 6. Correcting compositions was easier for sophomores in the computer lab section of grammar. 7. Not all was concentration in English classes. 8. WASC student practiced for a Friday radio show. 9. Surrounded by maps and pictures of France, French students learned another language and culture. 10. Mrs. Cheryl Talbott assisted students with grammatical problems in comp class. 11. Some English students found time to relax in class. 12. Daisy Ablog stuffs newspapers in Journalism II. 13. Written communication was a focal point of English. 14. # ...Mathematics

Mathematics proved to be a challenging academic subject for many students. Whether it was a course to fill the graduation requirements or one for advanced college placement credit, a high percentage of students tackled the classes. Math was not only an academic class, but also one with practical uses.

GCHS math classes varied from General Math and Business Math to Trigonometry and Analytical Geometry or Calculus. Algebra and Geometry classes had the choice of Saxon or Merrill track classes which featured different teaching methods.

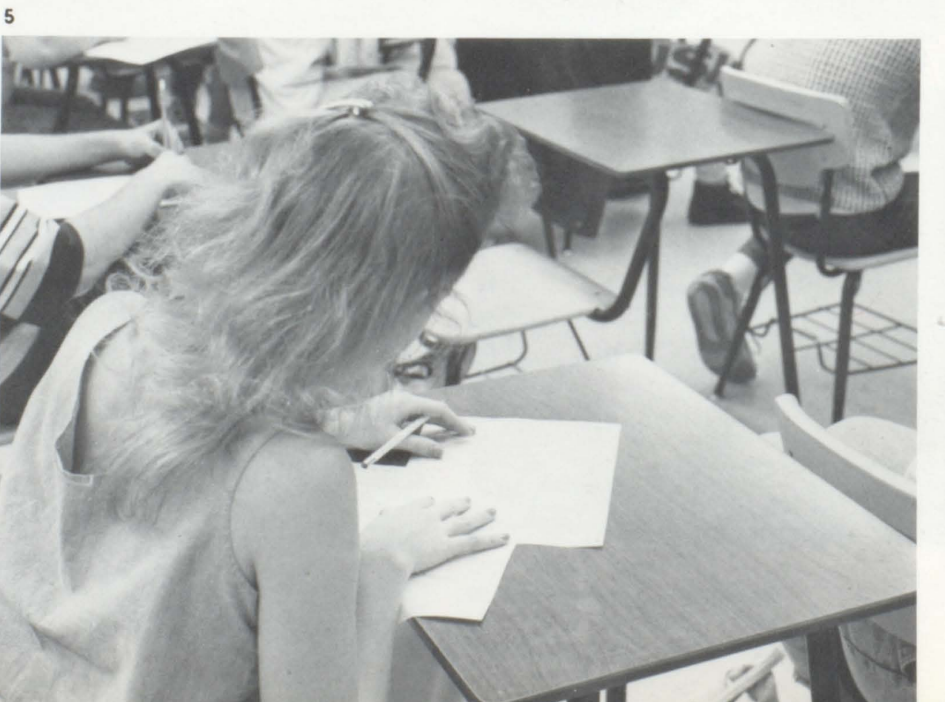

The GCHS math and computer teams continued to win contests at the County level and at IUPUI.

1. Mr. John Irons is as puzzled as the trig students over working some problems. 2. A calculator was handy in math classes. 3. Students in basic math worked along with the teacher on problems. 4. Keeping focused on math was hard, especially after lunch. 5. Paper and pencil were the heart of math computations.

...Science

Science, as defined in Webster's dictionary, is the systematic knowledge of nature and the physical world. Science became more than just a class for credit as students learned first-hand from experiments in the lab and demonstrations in the classroom. The values of science were evident everywhere from General Science to Chemistry to Biology to Physics.

Practical uses of science were discovered by the physics classes as they built bridges out of balsa wood, designed a catapult to toss eggs, and propelled a car with a mousetrap.

Biology II students cut open fetal pigs to discover the different systems of a mammal. Biology I students concentrated on dissecting worms.

1. Mike Hummell put the finishing touches on his physics project. 2. Lighting the Bunsen burner was necessary before continuing the chemistry assignment. 3. The microscope was a scientific tool students learned to use. 4. The famous fetal pig was dissected by biology students. 5. A blaze of magnesium lit up the chemistry lab. 6. Typing one's own blood was a practical science project.

...Business

Some of the most practical classes offered were in the Business department. Teachers stressed the importance of these classes for students entering the business field and for those going on to college. Keyboarding (typing), accounting, and business computer applications all were valuable to a cross section of students. Those watching to enter the business field after high school got practical training through advanced accounting classes and office laboratory classes. With the addition of internships through the mentor program, business students gained valuable experiences in the work-world.

If you are planning on attending college and majoring in business, one of the required classes is accounting. You will find it is to your advantage to take accounting in high school instead of waiting until college.

---

1. Accounting students spread out with calculators and ledgers. 2. Keyboarding students learned to type from manuscripts. 3. Office Procedure students rotated office jobs and equipment from typewriters to dictaphones to computers. 4. An accounting student works on a graph. 5. Keyboarding took concentration. 6. A break from the books was a relief to business students. 7. General Business students studied advertising as a unit.

...Social Studies

Learning how our social systems function was the emphasis of social studies classes. Ranging from World History and Geography to Psychology and Government, the students in social studies classes gained a first-hand impression of the world around them.

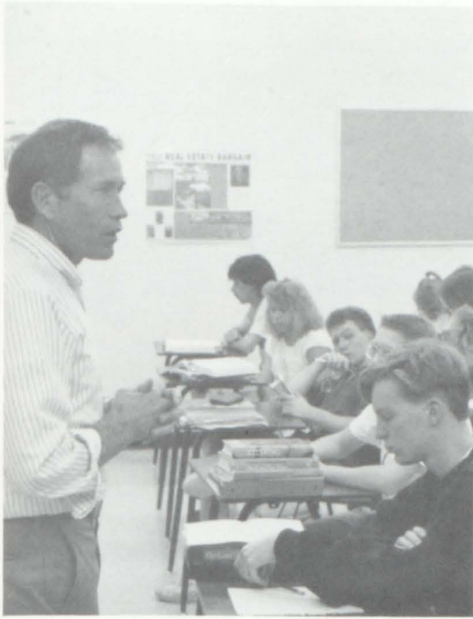

Understanding our world

1. Mr. Larry Keene emphasizes the part history plays in our future. 2. Students conferred on class presentation. 3. Much of social studies came from reading about and discussing social issues. 4. A new way of learning history? 5. World History student took tests over places and events.

becomes increasingly more important as the world continues to shrink. With the Russians and Chinese experimenting with free enterprise and the people demanding democracy, the study of world history and geography grows more important. It is also necessary to understand the foundations on which the United States was built through U.S. History and Government. Just as important were classes in understanding the social systems of man—Psychology, Sociology, and Economics.

...Health

Moving fast through life will be easier with healthy bodies, which was the emphasis of Health classes. From basic classes to advanced, students had the opportunity to learn how to make their bodies last longer through healthy activity and physical fitness.

Health classes studied the systems of the body and discovered how they work together. Special attention was paid to habits like smoking and drinking, which can cause illness, disease, and death. Students also had demonstrations by the fire department in CPR and fire safety.

1. Students enjoy free time in the pool. 2. Health students do worksheets as practice. 3. Weight training is a popular class, especially for the athletes. 4. Bill Hotopp demonstrates why he is a Semi-State wrestler and football player as well as track runner. 5. A guest in health class is this cut-away of man showing internal organs. 6. # ...Physical Ed

Physical Education was more than learning to play games or getting daily exercise. The purpose of physical education was to teach lifetime skills for healthy living.

P.E. classes ranged from the traditional 9th and 10th grade P.E. to weight-training, and advanced classes which learned CPR, first aid, and worked with adults in a physical fitness program.

1. Jumping through the hoop was a new way to get cardiovascular exercise. 2. Weight-training was taken by many athletes to improve strength. 3. Another variation of exercise used hoops and cloth. 4. Mr. Marlow Mullen instructs his class in the hallway before going outside. 5. Basketball and volleyball were still part of the curriculum. 6. Lifting weights needed a spotter as well as a lifter.

...C-9

The offerings of Central 9 enhanced the vocational education of GCHS students. Given the opportunity to specialize in trade, students spent half their day at C-9 concentrating on their vocational choice. The rest of the day was spent in required classes at the high school.

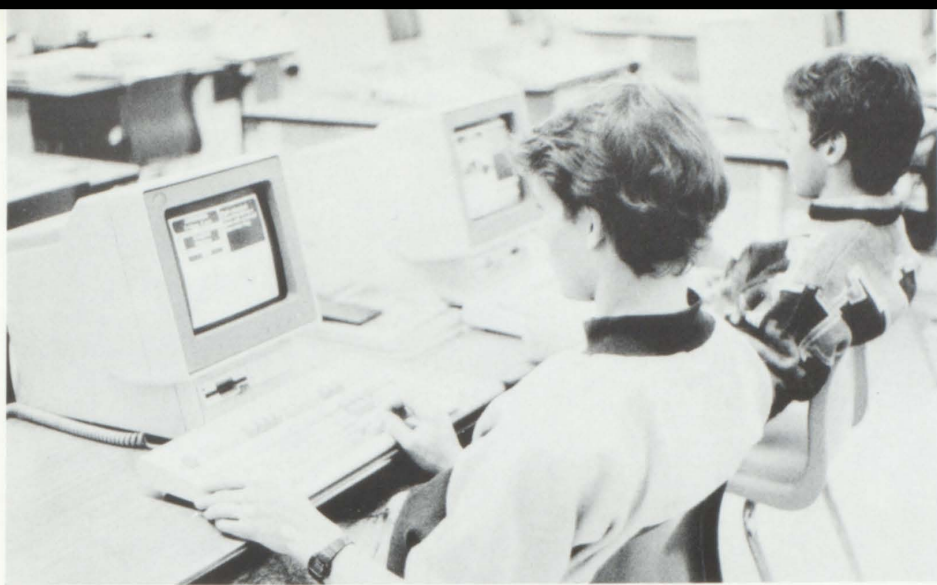

Central 9 offerings range from business classes to classes in horticulture, auto body, welding, printing, auto mechanics, building trades, and health occupations. Students were given the opportunity to complete practical tasks as they became proficient in vocations.

Selection for C-9 is based on an application. Students are rated by their teachers and counselors as to their aptitude for their choice and on their academic performance. Central 9 has a limited enrollment.

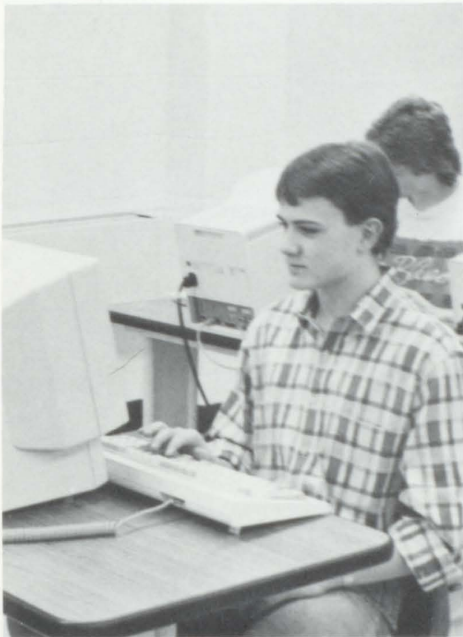

1. Business students learned to operate various pieces of office equipment. 2-3-4. Students worked in the auto shop learning everything from body repairs to engine diagnosis and repair to body refinishing. 5. Working with plants prepared students for vocations as florists and landscapers.

...Computers

"These were some of the best programming students I've had in a long time," said Mr. William Mellencamp, computer programming instructor. What the students in programming did was amazing as they wrote and executed difficult programs that flashed, danced, and played music. The computer team placed first at the IUPUI Computer contest for the third year, attributing to the fact that Greenwood had good computer students.

The highlight of the year for the computer classes was the completion of the new networked lab. Taking over a business education room, the new lab contained 24 of IBM's newest models. In addition, they were all tied together through a network which made access to programs easier and more efficient. It was rare to find no students in the lab as computer students along with business and journalism students computed their projects.

1. Computer students carefully studied the progress of original programs. 2. Andy Dalton looked pleased as his program worked. 3. Troy Turner studied his journalism assignment in the lab. 4. John Beville looked for the bug in his program. 5. The Sherman's didn't do identical programs, but the teacher saw double.

...Art

The art department provides students an opportunity to express themselves in many mediums. Students are challenged with pencil drawings, water colors, portraiture, crafts, and photography.

Under the direction of Mr. Joseph Reynolds and Mrs. Judy Adamson, the art students produced many award winning projects.

Students in art have the opportunity to stop and look around at various mediums for personal expression. Some find it in craft art while others become jewelers with intricate gold and silver creations. Students are guided from the creative idea through the techniques needed to make it a reality.

1. Betsy Doble works on project. 2. The first stages of a project is design. 3. Careful painting is needed on craft project. 4. Shawn fills in the detail on his drawing. 5. # ...I-Arts & Home Ec.

Taking time to prepare for the future, students in Industrial Arts and Home Economics took time to develop practical skills. Classes were offered in foods, clothing, child development and family living in Home Economics. These skills will be important as students approach the future. At sometime everyone has to cook his own meal or sew on a button, not to mention the more complicated food preparation and clothing skills taught. Being a parent is a role many students will play, skills which are taught in child development.

Industrial Arts classes ranged from home repairs to beginning drafting, woods, and metals classes. Some of the classes were preparation for college classes in engineering and drafting while others were practical in preparation for occupations after high school.

...Office Workers

Office workers were invaluable to making the jobs of the secretaries easier in both the main office and guidance office. Collecting attendance, filing excuses, running errands, and delivering passes were a few of the jobs filled by student workers. Another major responsibility was answering the phone, a skill which required learning to operate a switchboard. Administrators and secretaries agreed that without the dedicated office workers, the office would be total confusion.

...Leading the Way

Moving too fast through the Junior year would have been a mistake. The Juniors would have missed the chance to be drum majors for the Marching Woodmen, to play on a Semi-State football team, to be cast as a lead in the fall play, to plan a Prom.

The Class of 1990 used the year to become established leaders in all school activities. They were used to the way things were supposed to be done and individual enough to want to change things to make them better. Everywhere we looked this year, the Juniors were taking an important part in making the events at GCHS happen.

The triumph of the year was the Prom, planned and hosted by the Class of 1990 at the Indiana Roof Ballroom. It demonstrated the best of the leadership of the Junior class. As the year drew to a close, the Juniors were elected to the key leadership positions for the coming year and began to bring a new flair to GCHS.

The long awaited day arrived—May 30—the first day the Class of 1990 could officially declare themselves Seniors. A day they had dreamed of since that awful year of being a Freshman.

...Growing Stronger

Being a Sophomore was being caught in the middle. One step beyond the beginning and not yet part of the established upperclassmen ranks. Familiar, but not quite sure, the Sophomores used the year to grow stronger for the leadership tasks which would be passed on to them as upperclassmen. As we stopped and looked around, we found Sophomores gaining confidence and ability.

Members of the Class of 1991 built an outstanding float for Homecoming, showing the upperclassmen their creative talents and ability to work together. They elected Homecoming Princesses and won a few Homecoming Olympic competitions. They took on responsibilities in clubs and headed committees planning special events. They were rowdy at ballgames and provided the much needed bench strength for the Marching Woodmen and the Woodmen athletic teams. The reserve teams, dominated by Sophomores, chalked up winning seasons in preparation for varsity competition.

It was a good feeling having the transition to the high school over with, now the Sophomores could look ahead to the contributions they would make to Greenwood High School.

...Making Transitions

The first year is the hardest making the transition from middle school to high school. After hearing all those horror stories about the high school, the Freshmen entered the year, somewhat reluctantly, hoping the year would speed by. There were more people to contend with in the halls and no familiar faces in front of the classrooms. Seven classes a day seemed better than the eight at the middle school, but more was expected in these classes. The sooner this year was over, the better for the Class of 1992.

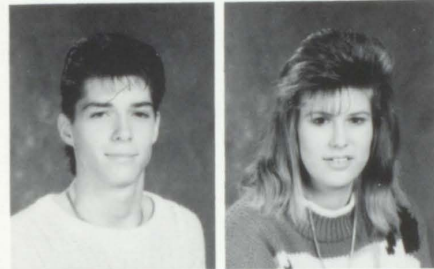

It didn't take long for the Class of 1992 to become a part of the high school activities. By May, the Freshmen had survived the transition. They were Sophomores-to-be, looking forward to the next step in their high school years.
